LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A devastating explosion that killed six persons and injured eight in a downtown motel early today was caused by a bomb, county officials declared.

"It has to be a bomb. There's no question," said Dist. Atty. George E. Franklin. "We don't know if it's suicide or what."

Bodies Found
Officers said the bodies of six persons were found in the rubble of wood and stone after the blast, and that eight persons were treated at a hospital. One victim was taken to emergency surgery.

Officers said much of the Orbit Inn Motel was destroyed, that the explosion apparently occurred on the third floor. They continued to search the rubble, while firemen stood guard to prevent any secondary fires.

The blast occurred at 1:25 a.m., investigators said.

The dead were not immediately identified.

The injured were identified as:

List Injured
Lewis Palmer, 60, and his wife, Laura, 66, Preston, Idaho; Steve Merich, 70, and his wife, Katie, 57, San Pedro, Calif.; James Mahon, 24, and wife Bobbie, 22, Las Vegas; and Charles Pearce, 73, and wife Essie, Bishop, Calif.

Most suffered cuts and bruises, except Lewis Palmer, who was admitted for surgery, officials said.

Deputy Coroner Harvey Schnitzer said "six occupants are unaccounted for, but we have, we think, six victims." He said the bodies of those recovered so far are extremely mangled.

Investigators said, 6th grad original, 161, 164.

The identities of the victims were not immediately available.

All Sidelined

Investigators quickly surrounded the scene and pushed spectators out of range. News-men who gathered at the motel were also kept on the sidelines.

Deputy Coroner Harvey Schnitzer said "six occupants are unaccounted for, but we have, we think, six victims." He said the bodies of those recovered so far are extremely mangled.

Find Stray Dog During Stakeout In Hurley Area

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

By 10:15 a. m. today, it was all over. The dog hunt had taken almost four days and three nights but the escaped canine that had been the object of a far-flung search was finally in custody and no longer running at large in the Hurley area.

"He was a tough one to handle," said Arnold Adams, of the SPCA, "and a small dose of dope had to be used to catch him." With the dog safely corralled, Adams issued a statement to calm the fears of many people in the area who had been concerned that the animal in question might be rabid.

"The dog appears to be exceptionally healthy," said Adams, but we will continue to hold it (Continued on Page 5, Col. 7)

RFK Offers Proposals To Bolster Dems Image

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — U. S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has proposed a statewide community service program to assist people and fight problems as a means of bolstering the Democratic party in New York State.

The wavy-haired senator advanced his ideas Friday after a meeting here with top leaders of the party. His plan apparently met a generally warm reception.

Disapproves Slightly
Howard Samuels, the party's unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in last November's election, registered slight disapproval, however.

Over-all, Samuels said, Kennedy's plan is "wonderfully idealistic, but it is not moving in the area we need to move in."

Samuels said he believes the party should become less regionalized, with less emphasis on downstate or Upstate problems.

As outlined by Kennedy, the community service approach would:

- Enlist volunteer workers in civic and charitable activities.
- Develop new recreation, instruction and rehabilitation programs in conjunction with schools, hospitals and other public institutions.
- Provide educational or cultural trips and summer vacations for disadvantaged children.
- Campaign against specific ered so far are extremely mangled.

Schnitzer said he found a skull in an alley across from the building, and that a woman's leg was found embedded in a brick wall.

He said authorities have asked for an FBI team to come from Washington to help with identification of the dead.

As dawn approached, bodies were being laid out on a parking lot in big black rubber bags in front of a panel truck, a county sheriff's identification unit.

Health officials closed off the entire block because sewers in the area were beginning to overflow.

See Compromise By House Solons In Powell Hassle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk of compromise in the fight over the seating of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell in the 90th Congress sored today as the Harlem Democrat headed back to Washington and next week's showdown.

Powell's office said he was due back in the capital this weekend after fishing and sunning in the Bahamas for weeks and had scheduled meetings with several unnamed individuals.

House Democrats caucus at 10 a.m. Monday to organize for the new session and Powell's case is high on the agenda. The fight over seating him will take place Tuesday when Congress convenes.

The harsh probability that he might be denied his seat or tossed out as chairman of the Education and Labor Committee has eased a bit in the light of two recent developments:

McCormack Says No
— Speaker John W. McCormack came back to town and made it clear he had little sympathy with the anti-Powell move, which is being led by two junior members, Reps. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., and Sam M. Gibbons, D-Fla.

The executive committee of the Democratic Study Group, which claims to have 145 of the 248 House Democrats as members, decided Friday to take an official hands-off policy on the issue.

The speaker's attitude and the lack of any firm policy by the largest single group of House Democrats seemed to clear the way for a compromise, something McCormack is known to be fervently seeking.

Tied to Suit
Van Deerlin's effort to unseat Powell is tied to the contempt of court conviction and jail sentence facing Powell in New York because of his failure to pay a $164,000 civil judgment against him.

Under one suggestion, Powell would be seated conditionally for a certain period of time, during which he would have to clear up the court judgment. He would retain his chairmanship in the meantime.

The general feeling is that Powell will have to stir himself in the few days remaining and help arrange any compromise that will keep him from being dealt with harshly.

problems at the local level, such as the need for parks, playgrounds and transportation.

One observer tagged Kennedy's plan as a politically motivated VISTA, a federal program that employs volunteer workers to live among poor families and help them. The initials are an abbreviation for Volunteers in Service to America.

Kennedy's proposal came at the conclusion of a day-long meeting of top party officials, including State Chairman John J. Burns, former New York City mayor Robert F. Wagner and Democratic leaders of the state Legislature.

Morning Session
The morning session consisted of a meeting between Burns and the county chairmen, Kennedy and several of the others were here only for the afternoon session.

Burns announced the party also plans to:

- To form an advisory group, headed by former presidential aide Theodore Sorensen, to take a "cold, hard look" at the party's problems.
- To re-establish a committee to formulate positions on issues.
- To hold a series of luncheon forums across the state.
- Burns also said the party plans to hold a $500-a-plate dinner March 5, in addition to the 100-a-plate dinner in late spring to help solve the party's financial position.

Happy Ending Appears Near for Tillson Family Seeking Beth's Custody

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.
Freeman Staff Writer

A stroke of a pen on a legal document on Monday could bring a happy climax to a prolonged court battle in the adoption case of pretty, blonde 4½-year-old Elizabeth Beth St. John, foster child of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Liuni of Tillson.

Judge R. Waldron Herzberg of Hudson, who was assigned by the justices of the Appellate Division of Supreme Court to hear court proceedings in the case which has attracted close to world-wide attention, paved the way on Friday when he announced he was prepared to sign the adoption papers.

One Barrier

Only one legal barrier could prevent the closing of the case in Family Court here on Monday. If County Welfare Commissioner Joseph Fitzsimmons does not sign the papers of consent then Judge Herzberg would have to proceed with the habeas corpus action.

Fitzsimmons said Friday he had not received the report of Judge William E. J. Connor, special guardian for Beth, but he said he has a "completely open mind" on whether the Italian-American couple can adopt the little girl of a different ethnic background.

Liuni, an International Business Machines Corp. programing consultant, told newsmen Friday afternoon at his spacious home on Mountain View Avenue, Tillson, that he is "cautiously optimistic" about the final outcome of the case.

Liuni told this reporter at his home yesterday that "for the last 10 months I have been pessimistic, but today I change that phraseology to cautiously optimistic." He added, "but until I have that piece of paper in my hands showing that she is a Liuni, I will not be elated."

Enjoying Home Life

While her foster parents and countless number of friends and relatives still show signs of uneasiness because of the uncertainty of the decision of Welfare Commissioner Fitzsimmons which may come Monday, Beth is really enjoying life in the Tillson home — the only home she knows.

The living room is elaborately trimmed — still showing that Christmas in the Liuni home must have been a wonderful holiday.

"Peppy" and "Mitzie" added to the happiness of Beth and her playmates who spend much of their time in her home, playing with the countless number of toys the little girl received on Christmas a large number of them sent by persons unknown to the Liuni family or the little girl.

"Peppy" is a French poodle — a playful pet given to Beth on the holiday. "Mitzie" is a cat, which Liuni said was given to the family by neighbors who have moved away two years ago.

Cat Also Adopted

"The cat was adopted by the baby (Beth), "Liuni said. "We use that to try to explain to the baby that Mitzie is adopted and we hope to adopt her as our own child."

Christmas for Beth was a day she will long remember. Toys came from all sections of the country. Some from Canada, others from California, Ohio, Wisconsin, New Jersey and other areas.

Liuni noted that Beth received a beautiful, large floral arrangement from a relative of the Kennedy family. He identified her as Mrs. Mary (Kennedy) Kick of New Jersey.

Among the toys newsmen viewed under the beautifully trimmed tree were dolls, stuffed (Continued on Page 5, Col. 6)

Connor Recommends: Quick Legal Adoption

"The child should be adopted by the Liunis as soon as possible."

That is the firm recommendation of Judge William E. J. Connor, special guardian and counsel for Elizabeth Beth St. John, 4½-year-old foster child of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Liuni of Tillson.

Final decision may come on Monday when Judge R. Waldron

Herzberg of Columbia County convenes court in this city, and the conclusion of the adoption case could be pronounced if County Welfare Commissioner Joseph Fitzsimmons does not sign the necessary papers of consent.

Investigation of the entire case was concluded recently by Judge Connor and Frank Appleton, former BCI sergeant, who were assigned by Judge Herzberg after court recessed early in November.

Judge Herzberg said Friday that he would be prepared to sign adoption papers on Monday, providing Fitzsimmons gives consent.

Fitzsimmons told The Freeman yesterday afternoon that he had not seen a report submitted by Judge Connor to the county welfare commissioner who previously had blocked the adoption of the little girl, said his decision would depend on the contents of the report of Connor and Appleton.

Cites Open Mind

The commissioner also said he would go into court on Monday with a "completely open mind" on whether the Italian-American couple can adopt the child of different ethnic background.

The law provides that when a child has been placed with a commissioner of public welfare for adoption, the commissioner's agreement is necessary before the court can sign the order.

Judge Connor said in his report to Judge Herzberg "I have no doubt as to my recommendation" that the child be adopted by the Liunis.

Connor also said that while he found Fitzsimmons "honest, sincere and conscientious public service whose objections to the adoption were not motivated by any ulterior motives," he nevertheless could not concur in his conclusions.

Connor stated further in his report that "in this particular case any rule that would risk the ruin of a child's life should not be followed, regardless of the dignity of the authority promulgating it."

Age Difference

Fitzsimmons has cited the ages of the Liunis and "medical reasons" as his chief reasons for opposing adoption of Beth, whom the Liunis have cared for since she was five days old. The Liunis are each 48 years old.

The Liunis contend the commissioner has based his opposition on ethnic reasons—the fact that the Liunis are dark-eyed, Italian-Americans while Beth is of English-Irish-German stock.

Judge Connor's report to Judge Herzberg follows: Having filed my oath of office in the Ulster County Clerk's office, I submit herewith my report as special guardian:

After careful investigation on my own part, and after conferences with Mr. Frank Appleton, Special investigator appointed by your Honor, and after having studied the reports of Mr. Appleton, I unhesitatingly recommend that this Court allow the immediate adoption of Elizabeth by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Liuni.

Careful Attention

Due to the wide interest and publicity in this case, I have given every careful attention to the reasons advanced by the Commissioner of Public Welfare of the County of Ulster in opposition to the adoption of the child by the Liunis, to make sure that I was not being swayed in my decision by public opinion rather than sound judgment based upon my own findings.

While I found the Commissioner of Public Welfare to be an honest, sincere and conscientious public servant whose objections to the adoption were not motivated by any ulterior motives, I nevertheless could not concur in his conclusions. The Commissioner seemed to be swayed by certain rules and regulations, some of them his own departmental rules, and some of which he claimed were the rules of the Department of Public Welfare of the State of New York.

Whoever may have been the author of the rules, with most of them I cannot agree. Moreover, in this particular case any rule that would risk the ruin of a child's life should not be followed, regardless of the dignity of the authority promulgating it.

It might be that in the first instance younger parents should have undertaken the early care of this child. This might also be said of someone with greater financial resources. Perhaps some other persons could provide more of what the modern world (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Marines Push War Into Mekong Delta

EDITOR'S NOTE — Associated Press Pulitzer prize-winning correspondent Peter Arnett accompanied the first U.S. Marines to hit the beaches of Vietnam's Mekong Delta — long a Viet Cong stronghold.

THANH PHU PENINSULA, South Vietnam (AP) — Eight-inch shells thudded into the surf and beach and the dawn came up like thunder as U.S. Marines waded ashore on White Beach in the Mekong Delta — heartland of the Viet Cong for 20 years.

It was the first mass American penetration into the guerrilla stronghold, where the Viet Cong have stored arms, trained recruits and hid near the beaches to rest from the war.

55 Miles to Saigon

The object of the early morning attack Friday was a strip of sand streaked with driftwood at the southern tip of Vietnam's most densely populated province, Kien Hoa, 55 miles south of Saigon.

The enemy was presumed to have had an inkling of the assault, and few Viet Cong were to be found at the beach. Only several sniper rounds defiantly whizzed in as the troops waded ashore. The enemy obviously was not interested in tangling with the Marines just yet.

The multibattalion force entrenched in the delta landings, codenamed Deckhouse Ptve, assembled last weekend aboard a 12-ship Navy task force off the coastal resort of Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, waiting for the weather to clear.

Postponed Twice

Twice the invasion was postponed because of hazardous sea conditions, particularly for the Vietnamese marines, who had to clamber over the sides of their assault transports, scramble down nets and into landing craft.

Eventually, the order was given for the U.S. Marines to go in first. Gray mist swirled around spade-shaped American landing ships as Task Force 76 launched its onslaught. 32-ton, water-tight steel amtrak troop-carriers onto the water like fish-laying eggs.

Amtrak 01 plummeted like a submarine as it left mother ship Cocorino County, an LST that harbored eight of the steel monsters in its stomach. Barrages of artillery and rocket fire from the 7th Fleet heavy cruiser Canberra and the medium rocket ship St. Francis River had already softened the beach.

Seek 100,000 Cong

Lt. Stanley Cottle of Tulare, Calif., spearheaded the assault, aiming his amtrak directly at White Beach, 1,100 yards in front. It was the first official American military thrust into the delta, home of five million men and an estimated 100,000 Viet Cong.

Alpha Company of the 1st Battalion made the first enemy kill Friday when they shot a man clad in black near their positions.

Then early today, after a night of sniping, a perimeter of a company heard voices. They opened fire and when the smoke cleared, a young man and a girl were dead on the trail.

Fires turned across the southern part of the peninsula as artillery and aircraft hammered suspected Viet Cong structures. Other Marines, poised aboard the helicopter carrier Iwo Jima, (Continued on Page 5, Col. 4)

William J. Meyer, president of Ulster County Federation, has written Supervisor Owen in regard to the program and the proposed meeting next week with the Game Propagation Committee, and asking that Supervisor Owen's committee present the necessary solution to the Board of Supervisors authorizing the use of prisoners on the work.

In his letter to Supervisor Owen, President Meyer says that the program is designed to "improve streams so that we may help restore better fishing and preserve our natural resources."

Need for manpower is presented to Supervisor Owen who is asked to have the Board of Supervisors adopt the necessary resolution.

Meyer asks that the Board give permission to the Ulster County Sheriff for the use of persons within his jurisdiction to do stream improvement work, "they being willing."

All stream improvement work and teaching would be done under the guidance of Region 8, New York State Conservation Department men. Special deputies for guard duty would be supplied by the county.

HEART FUND LEADERS—Heading up the 1967 Heart Fund Campaign in Ulster County will be (l-r) Dr. John A. Vosburgh, president of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association; Donald E. Sweeney, County Heart co-chairman; Franklin S. Kelder, chairman of the drive and Devesse W. DeWitt, chairman of the board of directors. All are members of the Heart board serving Ulster, Columbia and Greene Counties. The annual Heart Fund drive takes place during February. This year's goal is $37,500 for Ulster County. ## The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

"... In as much as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

St. Matthew 25:40

Air Force Lt. Col. David B. O'Hara has a deep Christian concern for all people. Like other soldiers in Viet Nam, his heart went out to the children. One in particular caught his eye, a cheerful little urchin who was always out in front of the Saigon villa which he shared with 14 other officers.

The boy would get him taxis and Dave would give him a few piasters. Each day, despite the language barrier, Dave would learn more about the boy. His name was Nguyen Dinh Huu but he told Dave, "call me Tiger." His father had been killed early in the war. His mother had abandoned him, and 13-year-old "Tiger" had lived on the streets of Saigon for three years.

Dave had a 13-year-old son of his own back in the states.

With the consent of the other officers, "Tiger" moved into the villa. He was scrubbed, cured of the bacteria infection on his body, given clothes and shoes. Then Protestant O'Hara put his little Vietnamese Buddhist friend in a French Catholic school.

Thanks to Dave's faith and the generosity of fellow officers and their families, "Tiger's" education and future is as secure as it can be in that war torn country. Dave said of "Tiger," "He did me a lot of good. The time spent with that kid was great therapy."

Fair St. Church Observes 118th Anniversary Sunday

The tree of the north lawn of the Fair Street Reformed Church with its 700 Christmas lights, will remain lit until Sunday evening when the church will be celebrating its 118th Anniversary. The observance of the First Sunday after Epiphany coincides with the anniversary celebration, and will serve as the theme of the day.

Recalling the story of the visit of the Magi to the birthplace of Christ, as recorded in Matthew's Gospel, the people of the Fair Street Church will spend the afternoon visiting three homes of the parish to bring greetings to one another. This year, the homes which will be open will be those of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Trowbridge, 11 Meade Street, off Clifton Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. George Antonietta, Norma Court, off Millers Lane Extension and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Modjeska, Birch Street, West Hurley. At each of these homes, holiday decorations will be featured. Women of the church will be assisting the hosts in the serving of coffee, tea, sandwiches and cookies while the youngsters will have special treats of their own. It is the usual custom for the people to spend some time at all three of the homes during the three hour visit which begins at 2 p. m.

Baptism at Service
At the morning services Epiphany hymns will be sung and the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, pastor, will preach on the theme, The Meek Shall Build. The office for the Sacrament of Infant Baptism will be read at the 11 o'clock service. While the many holiday decorations have been removed from the sanctuary, the Christmas wreath remains until this Sunday.

The Institute of Christian Living this Sunday will hold a joint meeting of the adults with the two youth fellowship groups, James Reid, seminary associate of the church will lead in devotions.

Your Life and Mine

CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

THE NEW DIGIT
Because we enter a New Year does not mean that we start over. Nobody ever starts over. The calendar goes through another cycle of days and weeks and months; but each cycle bears a brand new digit for identification. And that new digit underscores the great basic fact that no least segment of life ever is repeated. Every day is a new day. Every week is a fresh parcel of time. And each year is indeed a new year in the strict sense that we never have seen it before and never will see it again. Thus, for good or ill, the bundle of days we knew as 1966 has passed into history. And we have at hand a brand new segment of time called 1967.

All of this should alert us to the seriousness of life. It should help us to realize that the decisions we make and the things we do involve destiny. Responsibility for actions and quests is thrust upon us. Many choices confront us; but there is no alternative to responsibility for life. We never were consulted about that. With the bestowal of the privilege of days and years upon this planet also is established the stern inescapable condition that we shall be held accountable for the use we make of the time we spend here. There is no way to escape the seriousness of life; or to tone down the responsibility that rests squarely upon the shoulders of every individual person.

Not that we should desire such evasion—for this is what makes us men. God has ordained that life should be serious; and has established responsibility as the very hallmark of our humanity. We are not puppets on strings, doing only, and exactly, what the manipulator causes to be done. We are men—made in the image of our Creator. Life was meant to have meaning. And meaning is not possible without entrustment that is real and the responsibility that such an entrustment entails.

In the freshness of each new day does, however, lie the possibility of starting over in the sense that, by God's help, we can desert our sins and pursue a way of purity and truth. This

Only Bidding Was Wrong

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One of the first of the really great partnerships was that of P. Hal Sims and Willard S. Karn. This partnership left a lot to be desired in bidding methods but when the dummy hit the table either Hal or Willard would proceed to make up for any bad bidding by superlative play.

Hal liked to overbid in no-trump. Willard liked to hold back with a big hand until ready to jump to the final contract. This style explains Willard's pass with the South hand, his mere one heart response and his jump to six hearts. It also explains Hal's rebid to two no-trump with a singleton heart and no honor in the spade suit.

The final contract was optimistic but not unreasonable. It was just the method of bidding it that shows experts acting unlike experts.

East won the opening spade lead with the ace and returned the suit. Willard was on lead with the king. He stopped to plan his play. Then he finessed dummy's jack of diamonds, cashed dummy's ace of trumps, ruffed dummy's four of clubs and ran off all his trumps.

Says Kiwanians Expected to Be Active Members

Information for new members and a "refresher course" for older members in the activities of the Kiwanis Club were presented at the Thursday noon luncheon of the Kingston Kiwanis Club.

"This is not completely a fun club—it's a deadly serious organization," said William Leehive, first speaker or the program who emphasized that a good member of the Club "must get involved in its work." He pointed out that all Kiwanians were members of one or more of the club committees and they were expected to participate in their committee's work.

Following Leehive to the speaker's desk was Dr. Julius I. Gifford, a charter member of the local club, who outlined some of the activities of the 25 existent committees. He too underlined that members were expected to help in the promotion of their respective committee, through the medium of the "honor system" rather than direct orders to accomplish something. Gifford asked the Kiwanians to "carry on under the banner of good will, with better things to come."

The final speaker on the program was the Rev. Dr. David C. Gaise who pointed to the dependence upon the individual committees of the success of the entire club's program. He said that often one man is the inspiration that causes others to work, that "all committee functions were spelled out clearly" and that the "chairman of each committee had a responsibility to give his committee members something to do." The minister closed his remarks with the suggestions that all members "make an effort to attend meetings and do your share."

WALTON, N.Y. (AP)—A 79-year-old man was burned fatally Friday in a fire at a house he shared with his partially blind sister, who was unable to summon help because she could not dial the telephone.

Irvin Reed, who lived in this village southeast of Oneonta, was burned after he apparently poured kerosene onto a coal fire at the house, a fire official said.

Appoints Kelder, Sweeney to Head '67 Heart Drive

Dr. John A. Vosburgh, president of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, announced from Heart Fund Headquarters, 268 Fair Street, the name of Franklin S. Kelder, as 1967 Ulster County Heart Fund chairman and Donald E. Sweeney, as co-chairman.

Chairman Kelder and Co-Chairman Sweeney are the key committee in the month-long February campaign to underwrite research, educational, and community service activities of the local Heart Association. In Ulster County the month-long Heart Fund Drive will reach its high point during the seven-day period starting Feb. 13 when visit their neighbors to deliver educational information and to receive Heart Fund contributions.

Rochester Supervisor

Kelder has been interested in the heart cause in varying capacities. Kelder is supervisor of the Town of Rochester. He was graduated from Kerhonkson High School in 1932, attended Cornell University and has completed the Life Underwriters Training Council 1964-66. Kelder operated a dairy and poultry farm until 1964. He is district agent for Farm Family Life Insurance and Farm Family Mutual Insurance Company Farm Bureau, Dutchess County Life Underwriters Association, Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad, Accord Fire Company, New York State Supervisors Association, Town Rochester Republican Club, and the Delaware and Hudson Historical Society. Kelder is married to Elizabeth Harler, Hurley, and they have two children, Christopher and Janis.

Sweeney has been active for the Heart Association in its fight against heart disease and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, Inc. He has received his B.S. in Elementary Education, State Teachers College, Oswego, and his M.S. in Elementary Administration, Syracuse University.

Sweeney is a former principal of the Hudson Junior High School and for the past eight years has been Elementary school principal in the Kingston City Consolidated Schools. At present he is principal of No. 7 school and the new Edison Elementary School and is also co-ordinator of the Adult Basic Continuing Educational Program. Sweeney is an active member of the Kingston Lions Club, New York State Association of Elementary School Principals and the New York State Teachers Association. He is married to the former Anne Tormay, Syracuse and they have a son Donald E. Jr. and daughters, Anne Marie and Rosemary.

Notes Dramatic Gains

Co-Chairman Sweeney says, "For the first time the death rate from high blood pressure and the heart disease it causes is down 50 per cent, while that from stroke has dropped 26 per cent. These dramatic gains more than offset an increase of 4 per cent in the death rate due to heart attack."

The co-chairman continued, "Progress in the fight against heart and blood vessel disease since 1950 shows that an estimated 40,000 lives have been saved."

Kelder said "the Heart Fund has been the spearheading force behind the effort to save lives. Since the first Heart Fund Campaign in 1949, about 120 million Heart Fund dollars have been channeled into cardiovascular research programs. Virtually every gain reflected in the 74 per cent decline in the cardiovascular death rate, for middle-aged men is connected, in one way or another, with the Heart Fund."

The 1967 Heart Fund Chairman concluded that "never has your Heart Association had enough Heart Fund dollars to underwrite all the research projects deemed worthy of support of qualified experts. 'Let's make 1967 and exception by giving generously to your Heart Fund.'"

The 1967 national slogan for the Heart Fund is "Give so More Will Live."

ASIA'S CONVENTION

A new book on the Constitutional Convention of 1787, during which the basic U.S. Constitution was hammered out, is called "Miracle at Philadelphia."

The miracle was and is two-fold: That the document was written at all (one state did not send delegates and many delegates appointed did not attend or did not sign), and that it has functioned to this day.

A similar sort of miracle, one in which all Americans have a vital interest, is being fashioned now in Saigon where South Vietnamese delegates are attempting to lay the constitutional foundation stones of a truly democratic, workable and enduring government.

The 55 Americans who met in Philadelphia in 1787, however, did not have to conduct their labors in the midst of war. No guerillas invested the countryside, no bombs shattered the still air of that hot summer. None of their number was assassinated on a street corner, as happened to one of the prominent members of the South Vietnamese convention.

American independence was an established fact, as was self-government in the several states. America was new, underpopulated, free of the problems of poverty, slums, corruption and entrenched ignorance. Land and opportunity were unlimited, and one of the greatest challenges facing the delegates was how to provide for the orderly expansion of the nation, an expansion which some opposed but which seemed inevitable.

Perhaps most important, no military dictatorship breathed down the necks of the delegates with the power to force them to accept any amendment it wished.

Yet we cannot help comparing the two events, for aspirations shared by uncounted generations of humanity are bound up in both—the desire to construct a lasting order of freedom, justice, opportunity and peace and the belief that reasoning and reasonable men can accomplish it.

The American experiment of 1787 was a success, a continually perfected success. No such verdict can yet be made about the deliberations in Saigon in 1966-67.

But what emerges this spring from Asia's first constitutional convention, and what use is made of it, will augur for good or ill the future of millions in that part of the world for years to come.

THE MAIL WENT THROUGH

Mail deliveries throughout the world run to around 80 billion pieces a year. Mail deliveries in the United States also run to around 80 billion pieces a year. The tandem figures, reported by Postmaster General O'Brien in the course of his comments of this year's Christmas mail performance, dramatically highlight the magnitude of the U.S. Post Office Department's task.

There had been fears that the postal system might virtually break down this year over the Christmas season. The rising tide of mail throughout the year, coupled with indications that means of coping with the tide were not rising proportionately, had given substance to these fears. Yet the story on Christmas 1966 is in, now, and the story is that some nine billion letters, cards and packages were delivered without serious difficulty.

That is a record for postal authorities to be proud of. The dimensions of the Christmas mail flood heavily underscore, however, the problem which confronts the Post Office Department as we move into the new year. But it should be borne in mind that merely delivering the mail is only half the problem; speed also is vital.

During the Christmas season, all parties are content if the flood of mail is delivered by Christmas day, even though it may have been en route a considerable time. During the rest of the year, something better is expected; a day or two over hoped-for delivery time makes a difference, sometimes an important difference. Despite its laudable performance over the holidays, the Post Office Department still has a long ways to go before it achieves satisfactory handling of those 80 billion pieces a year.

'These Days'

RONALD REAGAN'S AN ADMINISTRATOR

He's just an actor, said Governor Pat Brown of his opponent, Ronald Reagan, during the Autumn political campaign in California. Meaning, of course, that Ronald Reagan was long on talk and gesture, but woefully inexperienced when it came to making administrative decisions. Well, Reagan knocked Brown's criticism into a cocked hat even before he had been sworn in as Governor in Sacramento. The story hasn't had adequate coverage in certain eastern newspapers which can be counted on to report anything and everything out of Lansing, Michigan; and if my western spies hadn't been on the ball I wouldn't have known a thing about it. Certainly it's not just California news, for it shows how far ahead Ronald Reagan and his Lieutenant Governor, Robert Finch, are when it comes to planning ways and means of ending the "Watts problems" in the big urban conglomerations of the United States.

The news, specifically, is that Reagan has chosen H.C. (Chad) McClellan, who directed the voluntary organization that found jobs for some 13,000 Negroes from the 46-square mile Watts "curfew area," to extend his operations to the State of California as a whole. McClellan, a Los Angeles businessman, will work without salary with Lieutenant Governor Finch and Spencer Williams, Reagan's Health and Welfare administrator, in a grand campaign aimed at matching available workers with jobs in all the "hot spots of trouble."

What should interest the citizens of Illinois, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, and other states in the industrial northeast that have "Watts problems" is that McClellan plans to carry out his program without asking for a cent of tax money from either California or Washington, D. C. The local Los Angeles campaign, which has cut the Watts unemployment problem in half since the time of the riots, has cost $6,000 a month, but the money has been raised from private foundations and by contributors from many of the 2,600 industrial companies that volunteered to support the program.

Mr. McClellan's Los Angeles organization is called the Management Council for Merit Employment Training and Research. A statewide volunteer organization will be put to work by Mr. McClellan and Lieutenant Governor Finch to canvass foundations and private citizens in hopes of raising a kitty several times larger than the one at the disposal of the Los Angeles area. Bob Finch, stressed the possible uses of "voluntarism" during his campaign for office, says of the new program that "we'll use existing facilities and it won't cost the taxpayer a single dollar."

McClellan already has four so-called "skill centers" in the Los Angeles area which provide short-time training for prospective factory employees. The centers will be expanded and extended to the San Diego and the San Francisco Bay regions. Unemployment in California has been running slightly higher than in the rest of the nation. It stands at 4.5 per cent in the Bay area, 4.4 per cent in Los Angeles, and 4.3 in San Diego. But, as McClellan points out, the jobs are there provided that proper matching can be done. The post-Watts story proves it.

The significance of Reagan's first administrative act is that it shows him to be a progressive in the American grain. He is accepting urban problems for what they are, but unlike some other supposedly progressive governors and mayors, he is going all-out to solve the problems without contributing to the inflation that is busting the U.S. dollar in half. Another thing to note about the new Administration at Sacramento is that the Lieutenant Governor will not be a Throtheadbottom. Bob Finch is quite a fellow in his own right (he ran ahead of Reagan as a votegetter), and Reagan, who is singularly free of jealousy will give him plenty of scope.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Oral and Local Treatments Available for Ringworm

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have had a fungus infection under my nails for many years. You recently suggested using tetracycline phosphate with nystatin for this condition. What is the trade name for these products?

A—Tetracycline phosphate is sold as Panmycin, Sumycin and Tetrax and nystatin as Mycostatin. These drugs, obtainable only on a doctor's prescription, are of value only if the causative fungus is Candida albicans.

Q—What is the cause, prevention and cure of itching water bumps that occur only in summer on my hands and feet?

A—These vesicles may be caused by contact with some plant or chemical irritant to which you are sensitive or by ringworm which is a fungus infection that is most troublesome in warm weather. The treatment and prevention would depend on the cause.

Q—I have been using pragmatar with sulfur and salicylic acid for ringworm but it keeps coming back. Is there a medicine that can be taken by mouth that would cure it?

A—Griseofulvin taken by mouth has cleared up chronic ringworm infections but it must be taken regularly for several months to effect a cure. A newer drug for local application — tolinaftate (Tinactin) — is worth a try. Both drugs require a doctor's prescription.

Q—What is a yeast infection? On what part of the body would it appear? What can a person do to cure it?

A—There are a great many yeast or fungus infections and they may affect the skin, lungs, intestines and other organs. If you can identify the yeast I will give you more specific information about it.

Q—I have sciatic pains. Massage and aspirin help but I still have a lot of pain, especially on getting up in the morning. Can anything be done for this?

A—Sciatic pain is a symptom that is usually due to a protrusion of a disk between the vertebrae at the lower end of the spine. The disk then causes painful pressure on the nerves that supply the leg and thigh. When this is the cause and the pain is persistent an operation gives the surest relief.

The fact that your pain is worse on arising is, however, more suggestive of arthritis. A tumor in the pelvis is another possible cause. Unless the cause has been determined no specific treatment can be prescribed.

TOKYO (NEA)—"One major reason Japanese stock markets are in the doldrums is that traders don't know if the Vietnam war will end soon. They believe the end of the war will mean a drop in Japan's exports to the United States and jolt the Japanese economy."

This was the thought expressed to me in a long personal talk with a Japanese stock market official. It was echoed by other Japanese businessmen.

The Japan of today is not the Japan of 20 years old. The Japan of 1966-67 is tightly tied to the U.S. political-economic system and the U.S. economy.

A boom in the United States reflects itself in a Japanese business boom. A slowdown in the United States results in a setback in Japan.

What this means to Americans is a growing export market for U.S. goods. It means increasing competition with Japan's high-grade manufacturers that will force quality up and prices down in a host of U.S. consumer products. It means a Japan, whatever the ups and downs of politics in Tokyo, that will have basically the same interests in

Q—When is Halley's Comet due to appear again?

A—It last appeared in 1910 and is due to appear again sometime in 1985 or 1986.

Q—Who comprised the backfield combination known as "The Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame?

A—Elmer Layden, the fullback; Jim Crowley and Don Miller, the halfbacks; and Harry Stuhldreher, the quarterback.

Asia and world-wide as those of the United States.

The American occupation of Japan after World War II built into Japan a craving for U.S. products and U.S. industrial systems.

Numerous Japanese firms have invested jointly in subsidiaries with U.S. companies. The number of these joint investments will increase. Japanese industries would like to expand this joint co-operation through the Far East and in other continents.

Japan has a large domestic market, with a population of more than 100 million. Consumer incomes are moving up at a steady pace. The standard of living and the purchasing power per family are high.

Japan has the technical ability to produce goods the American consumer will buy.

Japanese industry now has the know-how to turn out high-quality goods—in television, radios, advanced electronics, automobiles and trucks, textiles, cameras and other optical lines, scientific and medical instruments, china, typewriters and office equipment. Japanese industry is looking into advanced computer and laser technology.

More Japanese manufacturers are becoming sub-contractors for American firms, producing parts to be used in a variety of U.S. machinery and equipment. This combination—the Japanese desire to buy in America, the large Japanese domestic market and the dollar earnings from increasing Japanese exports to the United States—means that Japan will be a growing market for U.S. exports.

Japan needs increasing amounts of U.S. capital equipment to continue to modernize her industry. She needs, for example, to import equipment to help build her planned national nuclear electric power network. Japan's growing population requires increasing amounts of imported food. U.S. mechanized farms can produce rice and other agricultural and animal products at costs lower than can the Japanese farmer.

All in all, these closer ties are going to be profitable for both countries.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

The year 1967 promises to bring no end of changes to Kingston and Ulster County. Only time will tell if it will benefit the taxpayers. An interesting item appeared in the January 1967 Elks Magazine column, written by Tom Wrigley on Washington, D.C. They speak of 12th to 14th Street NW at F Street downtown in Washington, which they doped up with a central mall, with new stores and signs which attracted thousands for the holidays. The mall has trees, benches, fancy telephone booths, and kiosks where newspapers and flowers were sold. A total of 53 stores line the two blocks, and they advise that with their downtown problems to bring back business. Part of the cost was made possible through a $397,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Mr. Wrigley writes. After they have discouraged the little businessman, from the hot-dog push-carts and hurdy-gurdy to the little shop-keepers they are now recalling them to invest their own money and open stores again.

A shopping district of small stores with apartments above has proven over the years to be an interesting place to visit and shop. ## Asks Protection of Farmers

Wallkill Valley Group Urges Perrines Bridge Site Change

A new site for the historic Perrines Bridge to protect the farmers adjacent to the Wallkill River was suggested in a statement for release today by Norman Keller, chairman of Wallkill Valley Flood Control Committee.

The statement follows:

"I happen to live very near the bridge, and have been watching its decay and deterioration over a period of 20 years. The struts which support the bridge on the east side are almost completely rotted out. One day soon, if something is not done quickly, the bridge will lie on the bottom of the Wallkill River.

Reports on Offer

"Ten years ago a Mr. Harder offered to take the bridge down by board, beam by beam; renew the broken and rotted parts and set it up over a stream in the Town of Marlborough. The site to be a public park. Some local patriots insisted on leaving the bridge where it had always been, but did nothing about preservation. The fact that the bridge still spans the Wallkill is mute evidence of the unknown engineering skill possessed by its designer.

"To the south and west of Perrines Bridge is to be found some of the best agricultural land in Ulster County. Several thousand acres are farmed. Everything from alfalfa to Zucchini Squash is grown. There are three large dairy herds—some of the few remaining in the county. There is also a herd of purebred Angus cattle, and a large horse breeding operation. The investments in some of these farms run to a quarter of a million dollars or more.

"The Wallkill rises in Northern New Jersey and flows north in a serpentine fashion, until it confluence with the Rondout Creek below Rifton. Those of us who farm the Wallkill River bottom lands, know the risks. In the decade of 1945 to 1955 we suffered at least seven major floods. The floods strike not only in early spring, but during all months of the year. We have no quarrel with those who wish to save the bridge. We would like to join the historical landmark preservationists. We only ask that consideration be given to those of us who are trying to make agriculture pay, in an era and in an area where farms and farmers are fast disappearing—there isn't a dairy cow to be seen in the 15 mile trip from Kingston to New Paltz.

"After the two disastrous floods in 1955 the Wallkill Valley Flood Control Committee was formed. The Army Corps of Engineers was called in. Nothing concrete was accomplished about flood control; just as nothing was done about the preservation of Perrines Bridge. The local politicians would not put their shoulders to the wheel. Only Rosendale and Ellenville received Army Corps support, because the local elected officials worked hard for it.

Made Long Study

"So much for background. Our committee, after long study, realized that there were many factors, both natural and man made, which made floods more damaging, than nature left to its own devices, would have caused them to be. One farmer observed that his fall planted wheat crop inundated by flood waters and three days came back. The land which had water over

Expo 67 Information Center Opens Here

Greenwald's Travel Service Inc. at 286 Fair Street has been designated "Official Expo 67 Information Center and Passport Sales Agency" for the Universal and International Exposition to be held in Montreal, Canada in 1967. Admission tickets, which are called "passports" are now on sale at prices substantially lower than the gate price, when the exposition opens.

Expo 67 will be the first Universal and International Exposition since Brussels in 1958 and the first ever in North America. More than 70 nations will participate with exhibits and pavilions, including Great Britain, France, Russia, Czechoslovakia, the United States and Scandinavian countries. The six-month spectacle, endorsed by the Bureau of International Expositions in Paris, will highlight Canada's Centennial year and the 325th anniversary of the city of Montreal. Holders of admission "passports" will have free access to all pavilions and will be able to ride free throughout Expo 67's 1,000 acres on the Expo Express, a rapid transit system designed to carry 30,000 person an hour.

Mrs. Rossiello Is Given Credit for Time, Out of Jail

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Rossiello, 37, Brooklyn resident, who was sentenced to a year in jail on a plea of guilty to perjury in connection with the disappearance of her 2½ year-old son, Victor Rossiello, back on November 16, 1964, was discharged from jail Friday.

Sentenced to a year in jail on her plea of guilty to perjury before the Grand Jury during the investigation of her son's disappearance, Mrs. Rossiello had been admitted to bail but returned to jail as a material witness for the trial of Raymond Rickard, 37-year-old Brooklyn Seaman who had been indicted for first degree murder in connection with the little lad's disappearance. On trial Rickard was acquitted of the charge.

There had been a question whether Mrs. Rossiello should be allowed credit on the year sentence for the time she was confined to jail as a material witness. It was finally decided to give credit for that time as well as the time she spent in jail awaiting trial of the perjury charge. This credit plus the credit for good behavior permitted her to leave jail Friday, she had been confined to jail since last February.

Rickard was indicted March 25, 1966, for first degree murder. It was alleged he had fatally beaten the Rossiello boy at the trailer home of Mrs. Rossiello at Lake Katrine in November 1964, and thrown the body into the Hudson River from the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge. The body was never recovered.

Mrs. Rossiello, who had allegedly first given false testimony before the grand jury, appeared a second time before the grand jury to testify. She was one of the principal witnesses at the Rickard trial. An 11-year-old brother, Edward, also testified for the prosecution. Francis Martocci and Joseph Saccoman appeared for Rickard on trial by assignment.

U.S. Has Serious

plies to the Communist forces in the south.

Worldwide interest in possible new peace developments was aroused earlier this week when Pham Van Dong said in an interview with the New York Times that his government's terms, known as the four points, for winding up the conflict were not "conditions" for holding talks. He described them as a "basis of settlement."

Hanoi Hardens

Friday an English language broadcast from Hanoi said the premier had told the Times that the four-point position of North Vietnam "constitutes the basis of a settlement." This was read by authorities in Washington as a possible hardening of Hanoi's position since it could be interpreted as meaning that the four points were the only basis of a settlement which the North Vietnamese government would consider.

One of the major points is that the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front must speak for South Vietnam, meaning that the Communist program would have to be accepted for the future of the south.

Washington authorities also said that there seemed to be some hardening in the North Vietnamese position on the bombing — that whereas they have denounced past bombing ultimata since a pause meant the bombings would be resumed, now they are demanding an unconditional and permanent halt in the bombing.

U.S. officials said that the peace probing is continuing. They said there was no doubt that the bombing was proving extremely burdensome and damaging to North Vietnam, but they doubted that the situation had come to the point yet where the North Vietnamese were willing to get into serious negotiations.

In this connection they argued that it was very significant that North Vietnam had rejected this week a proposal by Britain for discussions on ending the war, and they reported that efforts by U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant and other world figures had, so far as they knew, failed to produce any hard facts demonstrating a Hanoi interest in ending the conflict.

At the same time optimism persists in official quarters here that this year, and possibly the early months of this year, will bring a decisive turning point in the struggle.

This is based on calculations that Communist forces in the south are constantly suffering severe losses and that the bombing in the north is putting heavy pressure on North Vietnam eventually to find a way out.

Area Firm to Have State Hearing Monday

A water pollution abatement hearing for the Empire Tube Company, Wawarsing, has been set for 9 a. m. Monday, according to Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, state health commissioner. The hearing, one of 45 for state industries and communities, will be held at the department's central office building, 84 Holland Avenue, Albany.

"So far 188 polluters are under abatement orders and legal action has been taken against another 120," Dr. Ingraham said. He said he expected cases pending against "major polluters" would be settled "within a few months."

The department noted that legal negotiations may make a change in the schedule necessary at the last moment.

Cut Your Own Taxes

If You Deal in Stocks, An Accounting Is Due

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

All stock sales made during 1966 must be recorded on Schedule D, a special supplement to be attached to your Form 1040.

Your broker's buy-and-sell confirmation slips should supply you all the information you need to complete the schedule.

First, separate your transactions into short-term and long-term deals. If you held the asset six months or less before the sale, it is a short-term. Sales involving assets held longer than six months are long-term.

Report first all short-term transactions indicating any losses in brackets ( ) in the margin. Commingle the gains and losses to arrive at a net short-term gain or loss.

Follow the same procedure with your long-term transactions arriving finally at a net long-term gain or loss.

The net short-term gain or loss and the net long-term gain or loss are then combined. If there is a net short-term gain and a net long-term gain, deduct 50 per cent of long-term gain. If the result is a net long-term gain, reduced by short-term loss, reduce the remainder by 50 per cent. If the result is a short-term gain, after reduction by long-term loss, it is taxed at 100 per cent.

If a net loss results, it is fully deductible against ordinary income up to a maximum of $1,000. Any unused loss carryover from preceding years may be used to offset gains.

A loss carryover retains its original character. If it results originally from short-term transactions it retains that identity and is used against short-term gains each year. If it resulted from long-term transactions it consistently remains in the long-term category until finally used up.

Formerly, loss carryovers expired in five years if not used. Now they may be carried forward indefinitely until exhausted.

Five Men Are Injured As Two Cars Collide

Three Saugerties area men and two from Kingston were injured in a two-car collision Friday at 6:40 p. m. on Route 9W at Malden Turnpike. The lone occupant of one car was driver Joseph Peckovitch, 70, of Cementon. Driver of the second car was Telesforo Torres, 39, of Cedar Street, Kingston, who was injured along with his three passengers.

Peckovitch was treated at Catskill Hospital for chest and back pains following the mishap. The other four men involved were taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance Service. They were identified as the driver, Torres, who suffered lacerations of the mouth, back sprain and injuries to his left arm and hand; Juan Gonzales, 30, of Partition Street, Saugerties, treated for abrasions of the left leg and head bruises; Leoncio Cruz, 40, also of Partition Street, Saugerties, lacerations of the right leg; and Indalecia Rivera, 45, of North Front Street, Kingston, who suffered bruising of the lip, shoulders and both legs.

Troops, J. P. McMickle, of Lake Katrine sub-station, said the mishap occurred when Peckovitch made a left turn from Malden Turnpike onto Route 9W and was in collision with the other car which was going south on 9W at the time. There were no summonses or arrests.

few inland in assaults upon suspected Communist training camps and bivouac areas. Vietnamese marines also landed in helicopters and surface craft at midday, as the largest amphibious operation so far in Vietnam got under way.

The first U.S. Marines to hit the delta were from the 1st Battalion, 9th Regiment, a group "that has seen a lot of action near the so-called demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam."

Land Unopposed

"We were prepared for the worst, but we walked in unopposed," said Capt. Michael Savers of Fort Snedden, Ark., commander of B Company.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, told newsmen aboard the Iwo Jima that the Marine assault was the first commitment of American troops to the delta.

"In the coming months it is quite likely that there will be some American troops permanently in the delta area," he said. "They will be very much in the minority compared with the Vietnamese soldier."

Mangrove swamps, infested with centipedes and mosquitoes, edged the beach where the Marines landed. Villages lay derelict and farmlands were overgrown.

The enemy thus far proved not to be the Viet Cong, but the delta itself. Within minutes after coming ashore, eight of the 10 amtracs that moved into the swamps were mired. Other vehicles crossing the beach later in the day suffered the same fate.

The Marines soon found themselves un to their waists in mud and water. The prospects of pushing through the swamps, the canals and the old abandoned paddfields was not pleasant, but that was their mission.

State Gives City Ambulance Firm Operation Permit

Doctors Ambulance Service of Kingston today received a permit from the State Department of Health, Division of Medical Service and Bureau of Medical Services, to operate general ambulance service under the new law.

Gilbert Gray, operator of the ambulance service, said it was the eleventh permit issued since the new law became effective on Jan. 1. The permit was signed by State Health Commissioner Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham and Dr. James M. Lade.

According to Gray the permit authorizes Doctors Ambulance Service to conduct emergency medical service in Ulster County including the City of Kingston. The permit is subject to equipment and training requirements which are waived for the period of Jan. 1 to Dec. 31.

animals, a doll carriage, a doll's chair, crayons, drawing book, and many others.

While television newsmen and their camera crews, and a Freeman reporter were watching "Peppy" chewing and pawing a stuffed dog on a couch in the Liuni living room, Beth was enjoying a glass of milk and sandwich.

Talks to Photographer

She turned to a Freeman photographer and asked:

"What kind of a sandwich is this?"

The photographer and Liuni guessed, "Tomato and lettuce? Ham? Jelly?" Then they topped off with "Hamburger?"

"Yes," Beth replied. "Come and get your coffee," Beth beckoned to reporters and cameramen including Gabe Pressman.

"With all the attention Beth is receiving, is she a little bit spoiled," a reporter asked Mrs. Liuni. "No," was the foster mother's reply.

Notes Experience

My own experience with raising children has been to the contrary of those scores. I am sure that more lives have been ruined by having too much in childhood than having too little. And having raised a family, some of the children having been born when my wife and I were in the 20s, others in the 30s, and one in our 40s, I realize that each age has its liabilities. For my own part, I believe the maturity of the 40s outweighs the vigor of the 20s.

The paramount need of every child is to live in an atmosphere of love. To love and be loved supercedes all. St. Paul, the great authority on love, was correct when he said: "Love hopeth all things, believeth all things, beareth all things and endureth all things."

The primary need of man from the cradle to the grave is to overcome his separateness, his aloneness, his loneliness, and to become united with others. Elizabeth has become a part of the Liuni family. I found it to be a happy family, a healthy family, a decent and honorable and respected family, a deeply devout religious family, and a family of good morals, and all of the members mentally, emotionally and physically healthy.

She has become a happy, healthy, bright, contented human being. To sever that relationship now in order to comply with some rule, would be to my mind a governmental sin.

Glaring Example

This case is a glaring example of how futile are the noble efforts of governmental agencies to formulate inflexible rules to improve even the phase of human endeavor. Playing God is indeed an impossible role. Under the rules and guide lines suggested in the instant case, the mother of Jesus would have been unacceptable for motherhood by reason of her age, his foster father would have been rejected for financial reasons, yet the whole world knows that "in their household the child grew in age and grace and wisdom."

I have not given the details of my investigation. I assure the Court they have been thorough. Many times when I was a Judge I had to make decisions touching the future of a child. These decisions were often difficult to make. There were at times doubt as to whether my decision was correct. But in this case, on the facts, the investigation, the records, the evidence, this decision is easy. I have no doubt as to my recommendation. The child should be adopted by the Liunis as soon as possible.

I have not called for the advice of a psychiatrist in making this decision as has been suggested. In my opinion this would be like asking a psychiatrist if a heated house was better in the winter than an unheated one. It is common knowledge that the statement of Dr. Benjamin Spock, the well-known child psychiatrist, is correct.

Guided Her Halfway

He recently wrote: "From birth to three the child becomes a human being. From three to six he becomes a future man or woman. From six to twelve, he becomes a citizen." The Liuni family have seen to it that Elizabeth has become a strong, healthy, clean, happy human being. They have guided her more than half way through the years where she prepares to become a woman. She gives every indication of being prepared mentally, emotionally and physically for all the trials and adventures of adult life.

The State should not now deny them the opportunity to train her to become a good citizen of that country that Mr. Liuni fought to preserve and defend. I predict that if the Court follows these recommendations and the recommendations of the Special Investigator, that with the help of God she will.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Bury Ruby in Chicago; Called JFK's Avenger

CHICAGO (AP) — Jack Ruby was buried Friday in a snow-swept cemetery amidst a group of family and friends.

Ruby, 35, died Tuesday of a blood clot and cancer in Dallas, Tex.

Rabbi David Graubart, conducting the funeral service, termed Ruby "the avenger of a martyred president."

Two days after President John F. Kennedy's assassination, Ruby shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald in a Dallas police station. Oswald was named the president's killer by the Warren Commission.

Ruby, born in Chicago, was laid to rest in a Conservative Jewish cemetery climaxed by his brothers' reading of the Kaddish, a Jewish prayer similar to the Lord's Prayer.

Ruby's four sisters were also at the graveside services in Westlawn Cemetery. Six policemen stood watch at the canopy gravesite.

Rabbi Graubart told the mourners at the funeral chapel that "on the surface, Ruby was an avenger. He was an avenger of the blood who pursued the manslayer while the blood was hot."

Gets Special Number

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When Fred A. Fisher received his Civil Service pension card last month he put it in his wallet and forgot it.

At a ceremony Friday for 30 other men who retired from the Kansas City post office, he hauled out the card, showed the number to Postmaster Theodore C. Bland and asked: "This means anything special?"

The card number was one million.

Post Office officials checked with Civil Service. Sure enough, Fred Fisher is the one-millionth person to go on a Civil Service pension since the program was inaugurated Sept. 1, 1920.

Kodak Will Meet With Negroes on Hiring Policies

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Another negotiating session will be held Tuesday between officials of Eastman Kodak Co. and a militant civil-rights group in a continuation of a running dispute between the two over the recruitment of Negro prospective employees.

Dr. Louis Eilers, president of the photographic firm, and Franklin D. R. Florence, president of the group, FIGHT, traded charges Friday on FIGHT's motives behind the dispute.

Eilers told a news conference that FIGHT's attacks against Kodak were part of a screen for "a drive for power in this community."

Florence dismissed the charge, saying he found it "ridiculous that Kodak would charge FIGHT a small, insignificant group of blacks, with trying to make a power grab. It's Kodak that has the most money and the most jobs in this city."

Florence said of Eilers: "It's not FIGHT's power he's worried about, but Kodak's power—whether Kodak has the power to tear up its signed agreement with us."

This referred to an agreement signed in 1964 by Florence and a Kodak vice president, John G. Mulder, under which FIGHT would recruit and screen 600 of Rochester's "hard-core unemployed" and refer them to Kodak for jobs.

Kodak's executive board repudiated the statement two days later, saying it was against company policy to contract with any one group to recruit employees.

Eilers disclosed Friday that between 1,200 and 1,500 Negroes are among the 40,000 employees at Kodak operations here, including a subsidiary construction company.

Find Stray Dog

for rabies protection as a precautionary measure." Year around Health Department laws require such action, he noted, even though rabies would not appear to enter in the case, Dr. Gilbert F. Hoppens, Rosendale Road veterinarian, will check the dog and file a report—but authorities feel odd against the animal being rabid at this time of the year are about 10,000 to one.

The intensive search for the dog, a small, white, stray with brown markings, began Wednesday when the Sheriff's Department received a report from Mrs. William Fitzgerald, of Woodland Drive, Hurley, that the canine described had bitten two local children, whose names were withheld. Later caught and confined to a garage while the SPCA was being contacted, the dog was taken to the SPCA from Dartmouth Prison inmates, escaped the prison and the clutches of the SPCA agent.

Savoring its freedom, it remained at large until today in spite of an investigation conducted by both the sheriff's office and the SPCA.

Like flying saucers which seem to be spotted anywhere and everywhere following each new report on the unidentified objects, the fugitive dog had been seen many times and as far as 12 miles away during the past several days.

By day and by night since The Freeman first reported the story in midweek, the dog had been sighted in at least 10 different homes in an area of about five square miles. With each supposed reappearance, the SPCA's Adams, or other agents, took up the search anew. Adams says other reports also came in constantly on different dogs than the one wanted on the same dog from as far away as 12 miles.

When the search failed to turn up anything new, the SPCA stationed a man in Hurley this morning with instructions to "catch that dog today." His orders were to stay there until he finished the job or had to give up. It was a move that had to make sense in view of the fact that no less than 10 searching expeditions had been made into Hurley before today's stakeout.

Early this morning Adams predicted, "We should know later today whether our man has been successful or not." The words were prophetic and, within two hours, justice triumphed and the canine escapee had failed in his efforts to elude his pursuers.

In all truth, it must be reported that he had some rooters in his cheering section. There were those who pictured the tiny fugitive hiding in a shack high in the mountains or leaping across ice floes in the Sawkill in the manner of Eliza fleeing from Simon Legree.

To those who finally managed to collar him at the scene of the crime, however, it was no laughing matter. Tracking down all those fruitless rumors he took their toll on time and effort. Still, the sheriff's office could be thankful for one thing. From all the calls received, no one had reported seeing a dog answering that description boarding a bus for the city.

YM Youth Head Lauds Varied 'Y' Programs Offered

Judge Hubert Richter, chairman of the YMCA Youth Committee, informed sources today of varied programs the YMCA is now offering youth. He said they include Hi-Y Clubs, Junior Hi-Y programs and work on Indian Guides activity in Woodstock and West Hurley. The latter is part of the development of the YMCA's increased awareness and participation in activities throughout Ulster County.

The organizational meeting of the new tribe adult members was held recently at the home of Joseph W. Gernon, West Hurley Road, Zena. The first regular meeting will be at Gernon's home at 7 p. m. tonight.

Judge Richter also explained the Crafts and Archery programs as well as the Tap-Tap Ballet class for girls, all begun this year. Plans are now under way for a boys' and girls' trip to Washington over Easter.

Chairman Richter said, for fifth through ninth graders.

The word taxidermy comes from two Greek words meaning arrangement and skin.

ter Ruth and two sons, Norman and Hubert, their wives and six grandchildren, were all present for the gala occasion.

Proposals to Reduce Nurse Shortages Will Be Discussed With Senator by Delegates

Representative nurses from this area will join other registered nurses from all eighteen districts of The New York State Nurses Association in Albany, Hotel Schine Ten Eyck, Monday, Jan. 9, to discuss proposed recommendations of the Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of Public Health and Medicare with the committee chairman. He is State Senator Norman F. Lent of East Rockaway, who recently termed present hospital nursing conditions "the darkest days nursing has known in this century."

The 15,000-member statewide professional nurses association has been in continuing contact with the state legislative committee since the NYSNA made a series of recommendations at a committee hearing held in New York City, Sept. 26 and 27, a NYSNA spokesman said.

The Monday Session will bring together Senator Lent and Committee counsel Joseph Jaspas with the NYSNA statewide committee on legislation and with up to five representatives of professional nurses in each district.

In the morning session, Senator Lent is expected to review his Joint Legislative Committee's present recommendations, which are the basis for anticipated specific legislative proposals during the forthcoming session of the State Legislature. No final set of recommendations or report has yet been issued, but NYSNA on November 15 offered the Joint Legislative Committee a number of suggestions it considered essential.

NYSNA representatives have identified three major factors contributing to the nurse shortage: "the economic exploitation of nurses, the ineffective utilization of nursing skills, and the lack of recognition of nursing's unique and major health contribution as well as its status as a profession."

The association, all of whose members are registered professional nurses in New York State, has recommended to the Joint Legislative Committee nine proposals which could contribute to the effective reduction of the nurse shortage with minimum time lag:

1. Immediate implementation by all health care facilities in the state of a minimum beginning annual salary of $6,500 for all RN's

'Y' Head Lists '66 Camping Year As Best One Yet

The most successful day camp program in the history of the Kingston YMCA was reached last summer, Herbert DeKay said today. Participation was increased from 373 different campers in 1965 to 491 in 1966.

Of that increase 169 were repeat campers from the previous year. A total of 8300 camp days was reached in 1966, with 28 adult and teenage campers assisting Leon Van Heusen in administration of the camp.

Improvements to the camp area in Shokan continue to be accelerated and this year included installation of the Lou Shafer Lodge, a rifle range, a new pump house, a B-B Range, and painting of docks, boats, floats and office.

Next year's plans include another new pump house, a chapel for Midget Village, improvement of the rifle range, and the continued search for aluminum row boats and picnic tables.

Any person wishing to help in the securing of the above are asked to contact the YMCA, DeKay said. The YMCA plans to change the single camp week to the first week of the program, rather than the last week, to better coincide with major area employers' vacations.

Add Four to YMCA Trampoline Club

Four new members were recently added to the YMCA Trampoline Club. The four, all girls are: Cindy Slover, Katherine Slover, Jeanne Sickler and Mary Anne Naccarato.

They were chosen because of the fact they had mastered all skills taught during regular gym classes and were ready to learn some more difficult stunts.

The "Y" trampoline club meets every Tuesday from 6 to 7 p. m. in the upper gym of the Kingston YMCA. Charter members and officers of the club are Gary Flowers, Ricardo Esposito and Gary Schantz. These three also serve as instructors.

At present the club is preparing a 15-minute exhibition to be presented as part of the YMCA Family night program on January 27 at the "Y". The exhibition will run from 8 to 8:15 while the family night program itself will go from 7 to 9 p. m.

The Trampoline Club is one of the many special interest groups of the YMCA made possible by the support of the Ulster County Community Chest. For an attractive brochure on the entire "Y" program one need merely to call or come by the "Y".

John Rosebrook Was Top Speaker At Club Meeting

"Parliamentary procedure is a necessary adjunct of every formal meeting," said Lamar Briner in a speech on parliamentary procedure before a meeting of the Kingston Toastmasters Club in Amberlight Restaurant on Thursday.

Briner discussed the form, history, and place of parliamentary procedure in today's world. Serving as educational speaker of the evening, Briner preceded three others in the program.

John Miller, John Rosebrook, and Neil Whitehurst, all of Kingston, gave seven-minute prepared speeches during the main speaking program. Miller, in his speech, described experiences of his first flying lesson; Rosebrook spoke on the current war in Vietnam; and Whitehurst discussed the herd instinct and me-tooism prevalent in today's society.

Rosebrook was voted best speaker of the evening and was presented the club trophy by Toastmaster Joe Whitaker, Saugerties.

Lowell Cagle, of Woodstock, evaluated the meeting. Constructive criticism is a part of every Toastmasters meeting in each of more than 3,500 clubs in every state of the Union and in 49 countries. Membership is open to men over 18 who seek self improvement.

Red Hook School Announces Adult Class Schedule

Officials of the Red Hook Central High School's adult education classes have announced the schedule for the winter semester of classes, slated to begin this week and continue for ten weeks.

The number of classes has increased from 13 to 27 for the new term, officials added. The Monday evening classes include school bus driving for class II license; beginning ceramics; advanced oil painting; advanced modern math; beginning conversational French; advanced woodwork; beginning typewriting; advanced bookkeeping; beginning sewing; physical education for men; driver education; and beginning English for adults.

To be offered Wednesday evening for the ten week period are beginning oil painting; advanced ceramics; beginning modern math; advanced conversational French; advanced woodwork; Spanish; beginning woodwork; beginning shorthand; advanced sewing; physical education for women; and metal-machine and hand processes—metalcraft.

Short term classes, a new offering, include estate planning for senior citizens on Jan. 23 and Jan. 30; estate planning for adults, Feb. 6 and Feb. 8; and filing income taxes for 1966, Jan. 11 and Jan. 18.

Mr. Harney received a BA degree in mathematics and an MS degree in biology from State University of New York at Albany. He is on a fellowship and working toward a Ph.D. in zoology at the University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.

A June wedding is planned.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I'm the mother of two tiny children and have very little extra time or money.

This past Christmas it was decided that the whole clan would gather at our house for dinner. Believe me, I was in a dither over the preparations until it occurred to me to ask our baby sitter's teen-age sister to help.

I paid her the baby-sitting rate, and in one morning she vacuumed the whole house, washed two floors, dusted, polished silver, etc.; leaving me free to straighten the clutter, set out the good dishes and get a head start on the cooking.

We probably took a few more cookies and chatter breaks than professional help but my "maid for the morning" was very anxious to please and worked like a little beaver.

I felt almost guilty afterwards for getting so much for so little, but I talked with her mother who assured me that her daughter was thrilled with the extra money and would be glad to help again.

I have just realized that by not buying a new dress for the holidays, I saved enough to get many more hours of help.

So, I offer my suggestion to other harried mothers (who know a willing teen-ager). Not only for pre-party clean-ups but when the weekly grind gets to be too much. It's the wisest investment I've ever made.

Mrs. W. W. W.

Dear Heloise:

I use a stay from a corset or girdle as a gauge for measuring hems.

I mark the length of the hem on the stay with a pencil, and it can be easily erased and re-marked for the next hem.

Mrs. John Donahue

Dear Heloise:

How can I remove berry stains?

My good, white tablecloth looks as if it's ruined.

Alice

Dear Heloise:

To remove fruit and berry stains from your cloth, launder with a synthetic detergent. Rinse in white vinegar and water solution.

Or, work glycerin into fabric and let stand for several hours. Then add a few drops of white vinegar, launder and rinse. (Bleach can be used.)

When fruit juice is set by heat or age, sometimes it is impossible to remove. The best method I know is this:

Force cool water through the stain. Soak overnight, if necessary. If the stain remains, rub neutral detergent into it, then rinse. If stain still remains, use chlorine bleach, sodium perborate bleach or hydrogen peroxide. Always be sure to spot test first and to follow instructions and cautions on the container.

Our children just came in with chapped wrists—that twilight area where mittens and coat sleeves part during strenuous play.

Remembering the thick ribbing on the tops of many socks, I rounded up all the holey socks, cut off the toes and made a small thumb hole, presto, a wrist guard that fits under mittens perfectly.

Dear Abby . . . Divorcee Has Right to Entertain

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter ran away to get married when she was 17. Two years later her husband left her and their small baby. The court awarded her sufficient support so that she could maintain her own apartment, which she did, until recently. She decided she wanted to take a practical nursing course at the vocational school, so I agreed to take care of her baby. It simplified matters by having her move in with dad and me.

Before she moved in I made a few rules. One was that she was not to entertain any male guests unless dad or I were home. The other night she had a male friend here, knowing we wouldn't be home. This upset me. Her father claims she is 21 and we should trust her. It is a matter of principle with me. Do you think a 21-year-old divorcee should be allowed to entertain male friends alone?

AGAINST IT

DEAR AGAINST: Yes, she was wrong for having violated a "rule" she agreed to accept. But you were wrong for having made such a rule in the first place. Why offer your daughter a roof over her head and then raise it just because she wants to entertain her friends at home?

Where else should a respectable woman entertain? Either change that rule, mother, or tell daughter to change her address. You'll both be much happier.

DEAR ABBY: I go to the barber shop once a week. I am bald on top and all I ever need is a little trim around the ears and a bit of clipping on the back of my neck, so it takes my barber exactly six minutes to give me a haircut. I pay the standard price, of course.

Now, the man who has a full head of hair and has saved up a month's growth takes about five times as much of the barber's time as I do, yet we both pay the same price for a haircut.

I think barbers should charge according to the amount of time they spend with each customer. I would appreciate your opinion, and the opinion of others.

BALD, BOTHERED, AND BEWILDERED

DEAR BALD: Considering how much a haircut (even a little trim around the ears) does for a man's morale, it's a bargain at any price. Don't split hairs.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BENNY IN WINONA: Better do a little checking. She sounds like the kind of girl who rides home from walks.

SITZ-MARKS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Here we are again! The ski season is well upon us, snow conditions are generally good and an optimistic mood prevails for the 1966-67 season.

Trail Sweepers Ski Club of Kingston has lined up a banner program for the season and member clubs of the Rip Van Winkle Ski Council are also featuring expanded schedules and projects. Rosendale Nordic Club officials, anticipating a happier season than the wretched 1965-66 debacle, have refurbished the jumping hill at Mt. Joppenbergh. The take-off speed has been increased by the addition of 25 feet vertical elevation to the inrun.

The Nordics anticipate jumps in the neighborhood of 240 feet and despite conflicts in jumping tournament dates for the first time, Rosendale expects to attract the finest leapers in the east for its series of events.

• The Changing Times

A few major changes have been made on the local scene since last season—chiefly in ski (school) heads. The Belleaire Ski School has been renamed the Peter Martini Ski School, with Charles Norton, CPSI, acting as director.

The Nebels, Charlie and Dot, who had run the Belleaire Ski School for the last few years, have moved to the west—to Mammoth Mountain in the high Sierras of California. Nebel is reported to be with Hugh's Aircraft. Martini continues to double in brass as general manager and director of the ski school at Davos Ski Center in Woodridge.

At Highmont, Cal Cantrell and John McGrath share ski school responsibilities. Jim Hendrix, former director, also headed west—to Wyoming where he is ski school director of the Medicine Bowl ski area near famed Jackson Hole.

Karl Plattner returns to Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl with his impressive array of assistants. Among them are Willie Larsson, just back from a refreshing course at the famous Professor Kruckenhauer's Ski Clinic in St. Anton, Austria; Hans Walcher from Innsbruck; Phil Rini, Kitty and Willie Falgor, back after two seasons at Bristol. She taught Johnny Carson how to ski on live TV. Karl's brother, Heinz Plattner, also back for another season.

• Sharon's Trail Sweepings

We're happy to introduce our second year of "Sitzmarks", the skier's column that schusses into the sports pages once a week, regularly on Friday starting next week.

Every year local skiers are actively engaged in competitive events but a head count would show more non-racers than racers involved. Why? At every race for juniors sponsored by area ski centers or the Rip Van Winkle Council spectators can watch registrars, gate keepers, bib snatchers, typists, time recorders and various other laborers caught up in running the race.

Often these people wear the familiar club patches or pins, and often the newest members are busily working with someone who has been around a while longer. What unites these people who give so generously of their time to assist behind the scenes? Most of them were never racers and never will be racers. The answer is enthusiasm for skiing, regardless of personal skill; the fun of working with and getting to know people better; the thrill of watching a race go while acting as a gate keeper.

A Reminder: National Ski Week is January 20-29. Look for a big community promotion this year! This is the time to introduce a friend to skiing, or take it up yourself if you haven't already tried. February 12-20 is the date set for the first Canadian National Ski Week.

• Local Racers Rated

Two Kingston racers have been ranked in the 1966-67 Alpine Seedings by the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association. Kitty Fowler of the Trail Sweepers has a 240.9 rating placing her 58th in the Women's A-B division. Jim Boyd, also a fine tennis player, is 132nd in Class B boys on a 283.5 rating. The ratings are based on 3 best performances in all events during the 1965-66 season.

Be careful where you sitz this weekend!

Middie Matmen Win Over Kingston, 46-6

Middletown's crack wrestling team won all but two matches and overwhelmed visiting Kingston, 46-6, last night in a DUSO meet.

The only KHS wins were scored by Gary Charlton in the 129-pound division and by Russ Wilber in the 167-pound class. Coach Bill Hurley's squad is 0-2 for the season and hosts Liberty next Tuesday.

Results: 97-pounds—Middletown by forfeit.

105-pounds—Sanderson (M) pinned Josefski (K), 3 minutes.

114-pounds—Belluto (M) pinned Olson (K), 2:36.

121-pounds—Whitman (M) decided Davis (K), 8:45.

129-pounds—Charlton (K) decided Kozic (M), 6-2.

156-pounds—Fields (M) decided Deilly (K), 7-4.

167-pounds—Wilber (K) decided Wagner (M), 6-0.

182-pounds—Gestezi (M) pinned Yaple (K), 3:32.

Heavyweight—Broadhead (M) pinned Clausi (K), 2:27.

In exhibition matches, a trio of Kingston High grapplers scored wins. Results:

135-pounds—Connelly (K) decided Smith (M), 7-5.

140-pounds—Serdienis (K) pinned Good (M), 4:21.

182-pounds—Rosinski (K) decided Jones (M), 7-4.

Coach Larry Skalla's grapplers have a 2-2 record and are at home Tuesday against Arlington and Friday in a night meet against Ontario.

Results:

103-pounds—Bartholomew (W) decided Brown (R), 4-0.

114-pounds—Shea (R) by forfeit.

122-pounds—Martin (R) pinned McCann (W), 5:50.

129-pounds—Ruggiero (W) decided Fitzgerald (R), 11-0.

135-pounds—Parisi (R) decided Montfort (W), 7-0.

140-pounds—LaFera (R) decided Meuschke (W), 9-1.

147-pounds—Andersen (R) pinned Mullen (W), 2:25.

156-pounds—Baker (R) pinned Garrison (W), 26 seconds.

167-pounds—Thomas (R) by forfeit.

Heavyweight—Heinitz (R) pinned T. McCann (W), 1:03.

Gillen, Aho Lead DUSO Win At Field House

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Something unexpected happened to Kingston High School on its way to the DUSO championship.

Fresh from their upset triumph over Philip Schuyler of Albany, the Maroon players ran into a red hot Middletown quintet and were thrashed, 67-52, in the DUSO opener for both schools last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

The skyscraping Middies, who started three players 6-2 or over, controlled the backboards, shot well and had no difficulty with Kingston's pressing defense. In short, the visitors completely rebuffed the home side and served notice they are to be heeded from in the league race.

With Ray Lindhorst out of uniform because of a virus infection, coach John Gilligan spent 32 agonizing minutes on the bench as his operatives failed to stop the Middies underneath. Kingston jumped to a 16-12 first quarter lead, thanks to some hot shooting by Bruce Gilligan. He had nine of his team's points.

Charlie Aho started to find the range for the visitors in the second stanza, collecting 11 markers and shoving his club in front, 31-27, at the interim. Believe it or not, the home side never came closer in the second half.

Sizzling Start

Aho began the third quarter with five quick points, hitting on a jump shot then cutting underneath for a deuce. He was fouled on the play and converted the shot. Gene Gillen, the 6-5 center, hit with a layup and a foul shot and within two minutes of the second half, the Middies had opened up a 12 point lead, 39-27.

The shocked home club whitened the margin to within eight midway through the period but still trailed, 48-38, at the end of the session.

Bid Falls Short

Kingston made a brief bid early in the fourth period. Two buckets by Ken Gilligan shaved the lead to six points, 50-44. However, Gillen tacked on three points and Paul Hughes added a bucket to widen the gap once more.

What made the Middie victory a stunning one is the fact that both Aho and Vince Budd played almost the entire second half with four fouls. They fouled out near the end, but by that time the game was out of reach.

Gillen, who hit from both sides of the hoop, had 22 points for the winners. Aho closed with 21. Bruce Gilligan with 14 and Ken Gilligan with 13 paced the cold shooting home club.

Kingston has a pair of league engagements next week, playing Tuesday at Monticello and Friday at Newburgh next Friday. The easy road to the DUSO title appears to be a rocky one, making both contests pivotal.

KHS Jayvees On Top, 54-50

Greg Rios snapped a 50-50 deadlock with a basket and Larry Harris followed with the clincher as the Kingston High Jayvees nipped Middletown, 54-50, last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

In gaining their third win in four starts, coach Mike Rienzo's hoopers played the visitors on even terms before snapping the deadlock.

Rios finished with 20 points and Harris added 17 for the winners. Gene Bruno did yeoman work on the backboards.

UCC Cagers Set For Sullivan Tilt

Ulster Community College cagers return to action tonight when they face Sullivan Community College at the Fallsburgh High School gym. Game time is 8 p. m.

The home side has a 6-2 record with the setbacks being administered by New York City Community and Trenton Jr. College.

Stars for Sullivan have been Ed Strong, 6-3 former Monticello ace; John Watson, 6-3 ex-Stewart Air Force Base player and Dave Eilenberg, a 6-2 ace from Brooklyn.

Ulster has a 6-2 record. In its latest start, coach Mike Perry's cagers were beaten, 78-71, by Trenton Jr. College in the finals of the Holiday Tournament at the Municipal Auditorium.

Port Tops Liberty

Steve Sarfatti scored 26 points and Bill McCooey added 21 as Port Jervis upset Liberty, 88-73, in a DUSO clash last night at Port Jervis.

The Indians were led by Ken Cogswell's 17 points. Port is 1-0 in league play while Liberty has an 0-3 record.

Rondout Cagers, Highland Also Gain Victories

Marlboro's unbeaten Dukes continued their march towards a second straight UCAL championship with a 62-42 victory over Ontario last night at the winners' gym.

Meanwhile, second place Rondout Valley remained a game off the pace by turning back Wallkill, 65-52. In the other start, Highland kept New Paltz in the cellar with a 76-72 verdict.

High scoring Rich Faulk potted 20 points for coach Ed Sagarese's Dukes. However, he was only the second top point getter as Fred Monroe turned in a solid performance, getting 21 markers. Charlie Moore with 15 and Brian Kelly with 13 paced the Indians.

Good 3rd Period

Rondout broke loose from a 24-24 halftime deadlock to outscore Wallkill, 21-8, in the third period. That was the margin of difference.

Gordie Taylor and Pete Kilduff combined for 33 points to pace coach Chuck Meehan's Hawks. Bob Druttman's 14 markers were high for Wallkill.

Highland, one of the most improved clubs in the circuit was forced to rally in the fourth period before finally overtaking New Paltz.

Coach Joe Helloski's Huguenots were on front, 61-59, after three periods but they couldn't retain the margin.

In Jayvee action, Marlboro nipped Ontario, 48-45, in overtime; Rondout stopped Wallkill, 35-34 and New Paltz squeezed by Highland, 32-31.

Ontario (42)

SLEET AND RAIN

Lower Hudson Valley:
Mohawk Valley:
Western Catskills:
Upper Hudson Valley:

Cloudy and windy with moderating temperatures today. Snow, possibly mixed with sleet and freezing rain at times in west and south portions, changing to snow flurries tonight and continuing Sunday. High today in the upper 20s and 30s. Low tonight and high Sunday in the 20s and possibly in the low 30s. Windy south to southeasterly 15-35, and gusty, becoming westerly tonight and slowly diminishing Sunday.

Western New York:
Northern Finger Lakes:
Rain today with temperatures rising to near 40. Rain changing to snow with a southwest gale overnight. Low about 20. Windy and appreciably colder Sunday with snow flurries and local snow squalls. Southerly winds increasing to 15-30, becoming gusty, southwest, 30-35, tonight.

East of Lake Ontario:
Snow developing today, becoming mixed with sleet and freezing rain for awhile before changing to rain late in the day. Temperature rising into the mid 30s.

Blizzard Roars In From West; Winds at 50 MPH

A wind-lashed blizzard roared into the northern Plains states today, dumping up to 12 inches of new snow on the Duluth area. The depth of snow on the ground in Duluth was 27 inches. The storm, which came down the eastern slope of the Rockies Friday, was pushed by winds of 40 and 50 miles an hour. Temperatures in many areas fell far below zero.

Blizzard or heavy-snow warnings were issued by local weather bureaus for parts of North Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The Weather Bureau in Chicago said 4 to 8 inches of new snow could be expected in parts of the eight states.

The Duluth snowfall came in 12 hours. At Alpena and Souda, Mich., the snowfall totaled five inches in six hours. Salt Lake City got five inches.

Hazardous - driving warnings followed the heavy-snow reports and later bitter cold moved into the snow belt.

At 1 a.m., the reading at Glasgow, Mont., was -14. At Key West, Fla., it was 72, the nation's high.

Freezing rain or sleet fell over sections of southern Michigan and showers and thunderstorms raked areas southward to the Gulf.

Some Rocky Mountain passes were blocked for a time by snowdrifts. At Afton, Wyo., a search was made for a 40-foot deep snow slide may have covered a logging contractor.

Escapes Serious Injury in Freak Thruway Mishap

State troopers on area Thruway detail blinked their eyes in disbelief this morning when they arrived at the scene of a one-car accident one mile south of Catskill. By a rare quirk of fate, a Plattsburgh soldier heading home on a weekend pass from Fort Dix, N. J., was unscathed when the possibilities were something like 99 to one that he could have been fatally injured.

As Thruway police described the incident, GI Herbert Agnew, of RD 1, Plattsburgh, had a blow-out which caused him to lose control of his car and hit guard rails along the highway. Like some motorized tightrope walker, the vehicle rode some 300 feet along the top of the rails before again dropping off to the road.

What caused troopers to shake their heads in awe, however, was the fact that Agnew missed the rail, gone off the road two feet or a fraction of a second sooner, the car would have plunged down a sheer, 100 foot drop—a flight into space that would have unquestionably ended in death for the young soldier.

Trooper Joseph Stinton, who investigated, said the mishap occurred at 5:45 a. m. today; that Agnew was totally unscathed but property damage to the car, which lost a wheel among other things, was estimated at approximately $1,000.

Thruway police also investigated a one-car accident, involving Arthur R. Riley, of 106 Middletown Road, Watford, about six miles north of Kingston at 3:20 a. m. today. Trooper Robert Rielly, who was at the scene, said the driver was southbound on the highway when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel, ran off the right side of the road, struck guide rails and plunged down a slight embankment, hitting several small trees before coming to rest against other trees. Uninjured, Riley was given a summons for reckless driving; is scheduled to appear later before Justice of the Peace Calvin Cody, Town of Saugerties. Trooper Rielly said considerable property damage resulted to the car.

When shoveling snow, lift with your entire body so that your back and leg muscles share the work load, the Mid-Hudson Heart Association suggests. Each shovelful of dry snow weighs four pounds plus the weight of the shovel; wet snow is much heavier.

Paltz Students Start Tutor Program for Grade Schoolers

A New Paltz State University College class study project has resulted in the rejuvenation of a program started here last year to aid elementary children with their school work.

A year ago a group study program was instituted at the Franklin Street AME Zion Church under the direction of its pastor, the Rev. Vernon A. Douglas. Marked improvement was noted in children who participated. Their level of achievement was noticeably higher; they were able to keep up with their class and they began to understand basic studies.

However the program fell apart before Easter and was not resumed until the interest of several New Paltz students was sparked by discussions with the Rev. Mr. Douglas in late fall.

Sessions Start Monday

Through the efforts of this group headed by Mrs. Charles Slutsky and Miss Sharon Roth, both students, tutor sessions will be started this Monday 6:30 p. m. at the church. Parents and children will be able to meet the teachers at the meeting. All

3 Injured; None Cited In Route 9W Collision

Lake Katrine troopers investigated a two-car accident Friday at 3 p. m. on Route 9W at Albany Avenue which resulted in injuries to three persons. Drivers of the two vehicles involved, both residents of Kingston, were identified as William Tripp, 35, of Colonial Gardens, and Christina Kline, 65, of Mitchell's Trailer Park.

Treated at Kingston Hospital were Christina Kline, who complained of back pains; and Ester Khederian, 71, of the trailer park, a passenger in the Kline car, who suffered lacerations of the lips and facial bruises. Joan Tripp, 31, of Colonial Gardens, a passenger in the other car, complained of pains in the right arm but was not taken to the hospital.

Trooper A. W. Spencer, who investigated, said the Tripp vehicle was going south on Route 9W when it was in collision with the rear of the Kline car, which was attempting to make a left turn into the highway from Albany Avenue. Neither driver was cited.

Troopers from Lake Katrine substation also conducted a radar check on Route 9W in the Town of Ulster Friday afternoon. Summonses were issued to five drivers for speeding during the check.

children with homework and study problems may attend. Sessions will be held every week Monday and Wednesday 6:30 to 8 p. m.

A spokesman for the student teachers said, "it is our hope to help children with their studies. We hope to be able to create an environment that will invite the desire to learn. It is not our aim to teach the children, for most of us are not qualified teachers, but we hope to supervise the children's study habits, correct errors, answer questions and help them in any way possible. Any questions we are not able to answer on the spot, will be answered by the following session."

Is Volunteer Project

The project is a volunteer one and all children of the area may participate. Some 30 New Paltz students have volunteered their services.

The original class project for a General Education Forum, a course given at the college, was to become associated with the Negro element in the community and find out how they feel about many questions. One group attended the Franklin Street AME Zion Church and in discussion with the pastor discovered the crying need for a tutor program to assist children who do not have the necessary help at home. It was discovered that the problem was not necessarily a Negro problem but one shared by many.

Quell Garage Fire

Members of the Centerville Vols were called upon to combine the duties of farmer and fireman Friday afternoon when they answered a 4:30 p. m. alarm on Pine Lane, near Pine Grove, Town of Saugerties.

Fire started in a one-time garage owned by Fletcher Simpkins and now used for the storage of hay, according to Chief Franklin Ward of the Centerville Vols. Burnnig hay is notorious for being hard to handle; always presents serious problems for firemen. "We had to get all the hay out of the building," said Ward, "and to empty the structure, we all turned in like a bunch of farmers." To fight the blaze, Centerville Vols used all men and equipment. Due to their efforts, the building is still standing, but several holes burned through the walls before flames were brought under control and all the hay raked out into the open.

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP) — A group of leading economists rang in the new year with predictions that the economy's advance will slow down in 1967.
But they didn't forecast a recession.

Panel of 12

The panel of 12 economists made up the 21st annual economic outlook forum of the National Industrial Conference Board, a private nonprofit economic research organization. The chairman, Martin R. Gainsbrugh, who is vice president and chief economist for the board, said the consensus was that by the second half of 1967 the economy would be in a phase of "consolidation" but "certainly not a recession."

Gainsbrugh said the economic thermometers in terms of the nation's total output of goods and services may still be rising but the economic barometers "already indicate" stormy weather ahead.

Most Pessimistic

Solomon Fabricant, professor of economics at New York University, was the most pessimistic of the group. He analyzed the performance of the so-called "leading indicators" — those measures of business activity that typically turn down or up — before a change in the state of the general economy.

"The outstanding fact visible at this time," he said, "is that almost all—certainly the majority—of the leading indicators are pointing downward."
"What this adds up to is this: There are signs that the expansion that we have had close to six years may now be coming to an end. These developments are not inconsistent with the appearance of a recession in 1967."

But, he added, a recession "is by no means inevitable"—a recession could be avoided "if we fear one and take steps to protect ourselves."

Walter E. Hoadley, senior vice president and chief economist for the Bank of America, said prosperity would be the key word for 1967 but added it would be "a worrisome prosperity."

Has Bright Side

On a brighter note, Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor reported in the 1967 edition of "United States Industrial Outlook" that industry is optimistic about the outlook for 1967.

The report analyzes the prospects in 78 individual industries, accounting for 60 per cent of manufacturing, all of the construction industry and the wholesale and retail trades, and selected data for all other manufacturing industries.

According to the "Outlook," 14 of 78 industries will grow by more than 10 per cent, 37 anticipate increases between 8 and 10 per cent, and 24 are expected to expand by less than 5 per cent. Issued new figures showing a 4.5 per cent decline in orders received by factories for durable goods in November. The decline to the lowest level of the year followed a 4.1 per cent drop in October. The fall was centered in the aircraft industry.

Durable goods orders during November totaled $23.15 billion, compared with $24.24 billion in October and $25.27 billion in September.

Installments Up

Consumers increased their installment credit by $444 million during November, up from October's two-year low of $380 million, the Federal Reserve Board reported.

The board said automobiles and personal loans accounted for the bulk of the November growth.

Despite November's rise, the level remained well below the average for the first three quarters of 1966 which ranged between $524 million and $595 million monthly.

The automobile industry's 1966 production was announced as 8,598,929 passenger cars, second only to the record 9,329,091 cars built in 1965.

Output for the week was estimated at 143,400 cars, up 25 per cent from 115,433 the previous week and down 26 per cent from 192,713 a year ago.

Steel production in 1966 reached a record 134,041,000 tons, up from the previous top of 131,462,000 in 1966. Output during the week totaled 2.22 million tons, compared with 2.377,000 the previous week.

"The Invaders" . . . Roy Thinnes plays the only man who knows of a race from another world planning imminent invasion of our earth. The ABC show is a new dimension for producer Quinn Martin, of "FBI," "Fugitive," and "Untouchables."

New 'Invaders' Series Goosepimple Rating Is Out of This World

By EDGAR PENTON

Shortly after attending an advance screening of the first episode of ABC's grippingly realistic "The Invaders" series, in which aliens from outer space have landed on earth, a self-styled skeptic in Hollywood confessed with some chagrin:

"Driving home a couple of nights later, I saw four big green flashes that seemed to come from a block or two away. I turned the car and sped in that direction — terrified, but compelled — with only one thought in mind, 'what will I say to them?'"

"It turned out to be transformers blowing. Probably overloaded. The thing is that I didn't even stop to think of an ordinary possibility like that. The show really got to me."

"The Invaders," starring Roy Thinnes, premieres Tuesday Jan. 10, 8:30-9:30 p. m. Eastern time in the network's "second season."

After viewing it, you may never walk the pup after dusk again without casting furtive glances at the sky and at passing shadowy figures. In broad daylight, you may find yourself studying a cabbie, an elevator operator, a saleslady or a next-door neighbor, checking for the "mutated finger." Want to bet?

"Face it, they're here among us . . . in your city . . . maybe on your block. They're invaders from a distant, doomed planet, but they look just like us," says producer Alan A. Armer of the series premise.

Armer, former producer of "The Fugitive," also for QM Productions, notes that the beings from outer space are arriving in limited numbers, advance patrols from a planet in a distant galaxy whose inhabitants have only a year or two in which to relocate.

Only one man, David Vincent, a promising young architect, knows of their presence and their purpose—that they have been sent to earth to determine if our environment is suitable for their survival. The ultimate aim is to take over, to enslave earthlings.

As portrayed by star Roy Thinnes, Vincent, whose normal way of life is shattered by his accidental discovery of their presence, is on a desperate one-man mission to alert a disbelieving people of the imminent danger.

"The approach we have taken is realism," adds Armer, "believing that the incredible, treated in down-to-earth, recognizable terms, can be made twice as terrifying, twice as chilling. And we've tailored our stories to dramatize one point of view: It could be happening now!"

Thinnes, who has read as many pages on the subject of Unidentified Flying Objects as he has pages of scripts since filming the series pilot last spring, recently said:

"Even two or three years ago, our series might have been considered pretty far out. But according to a recent national poll, one of every 40 Americans believes in UFOs.

"The timing of the series couldn't be better. Newspapers and national magazines are full of material on the subject, and reputable authors are writing books about the phenomenon.

"The Air Force's Project Bluebook study group received 886 reports of UFO sightings in 1965 and expected the 1966 figure to far exceed that."

And, says Thinnes, that only skims the subject.

One news account fascinates Roy because it so closely parallels the experience of his alter ego in the series, David Vincent. (This is the widely publicized story of the Midwestern county sheriff whose life was allegedly ruined after he chased a flying saucer for over 80 miles. Events stemming from the bizarre experience are said to have cost him his job, family, and peace of mind.)

"This is the way it is with David Vincent," said Thinnes. "Although the circumstances are different, his life is wrecked and he is considered a crackpot when he tries to warn people."

Though having the only continuing role in the hour-long series is "taxing, both physically and otherwise," Roy's general reaction to the assignment is "mucho gusto."

"After all, I asked for it," he said, "and I'm ready for it . . . because of my background."

He referred to his two years as Dr. Phil Brewer in ABC's

"General Hospital," a five-a-week daytimer.

"At that time, I didn't think of it as gaining background. My only concern was to give a full, no-holds-barred performance every day. It was grueling. After that experience, I was ready for anything," he said.

To begin his next series assignment, that of Ben Quick in "The Long, Hot Summer," Roy taped three final "General Hospital" segments on a Sunday and was at work in his new role the following day.

The procedure with "The Invaders" was similar. His role was written out of the final episode of "Summer" so he could start his new series the following Monday.

Why the demand? The answer comes, from Quinn Martin, executive producer of "The Invaders," "The Fugitive" and "The FBI."

"In an age of passive people, Thinnes stands out as a vibrant, exciting individual.

"(He) has amazing poise for his 29 years and totally relates to other actors thus making himself interesting to watch.

"Thinnes can act, is good-looking and virile. This can only add up to his being the next really big star in our industry." To which a production crew member, a man on difficult location shootings that average four days per episode, added: "We don't just have a great actor, we have a gentleman for our star."

The word "gentleman" is frequently employed by co-workers in speaking of Thinnes. He combines genuine charm with a reserve that makes him wear well while working long, demanding hours, they say.

"I feel that good manners should be one of the responsibilities of the actor because they are so effective in oiling the wheels of production in any business.

"In our home in Chicago, where I grew up an only child, my parents were polite and considerate with each other and with me, and I guess some of it rubbed off," Roy said quietly.

Though extremely enthusiastic about the series, which he foresees as a great success, Thinnes does not care to discuss production matters.

"I feel that it is important to protect the reality of the series. We don't use a lot of gimmicks in this interest. It's hard enough to create an illusion, but to show how you did it destroys the illusion you have created," he stated.

Now back to the out-of-this-

Too Much White

Michael Tolan, formerly a regular on The Doctors and The Nurses, and recently seen on Bob Hope Presents the Chrysler Theater, said that, while he was sorry to see the show go off, he was kind of relieved at the same time. "I was going snowblind from all those white uniforms," he said.

world "stars" of the series, the extraterrestrial beings.

Some — not all — of "The Invaders" have something undeveloped — clawlike — about their fingers. A strange mutation, possibly a mark of the creature within the assumed human form. Sometimes there is a certain awkwardness about these beings.

Then there's the glow that suffuses these humanoids, eventually incinerating them without trace — unless they can regenerate themselves in time in power capsules secreted at abandoned plants.

There is one other way to spot them.

They have no heartbeat because they are heartless, it is said.

Do you want to get close enough to find out?

Ketchum Is Elusive Man

HOLLYWOOD — In the new role of Agent 13 on television's Get Smart this season, Dave Ketchum turns up in the strangest places.

With sudden abruptness Agent 13 appears inside a popcorn dispenser or from out of a trash can, inside a foot locker or out of a mail box, inside a sofa or out of a picture frame.

Guessing where he will be next week has become a game with regular fans of the show.

Off screen Dave Ketchum also keeps Hollywood guessing about where he will show up next. The other day even a man from NBC guessed wrong about Dave's presence on the Get Smart set. There had been a last-minute change in the shooting schedule, it was explained, to permit Dave to play a role in another TV series.

We found him, four miles away, playing the part of a real estate salesman on The Andy Griffith Show. For a rival (CBS) network yet.

"I like to be a moving target," Dave kidded about a career which has been booming since he starred in the short-lived Camp Runamuck series after first winning TV fan attention in I'm Dickens . . . He's Fenster.

In addition to acting these days he's also writing (five Petticoat Junction and three Hey, Landlord scripts); working in TV commercials (he's that fellow with a glass garage for his 1967 car) and providing the voices of five different characters in the Roger Ramjet kiddie cartoon series.

Some actors belittle commercials and cartoon voices, but Dave welcomes them. He says, "I once read that the Hollywood Screen Actors Guild has a membership of 10,000 but that only 1,000 members work full time in the industry. I'm proud of the fact that in this basically insecure business I'm a full-time worker. To be one, it's necessary to be versatile."

That, of course, is the story of his show business career which started on a San Diego, Calif., radio station before he invaded Hollywood television.

Since turning to writing TV scripts (with Bruce Shelley) Dave says his eyes have been opened to a new advantage for him as an actor.

"Writing scripts," he explains, "has taught me to recognize good parts which I might otherwise have turned down. Writing scripts teaches you how to read scripts from a different viewpoint."

About his TV commercial work, he enthuses:

"It takes two days to film a one-minute commercial. It's just like making a big-time movie and I think there's more real creative talent behind some commercials than in many TV shows. For young unknowns, a one minute TV commercial is better than a major studio big screen screen test."

BEACHED FOR THE SUMMER—The Northern Hemisphere is approaching mid-winter, but it's summer in Australia and Suzy Gashler, 17, is spending four weeks of her school recess at the beach at Portsea, Victoria. (AP Wirephoto by cable from London)

ROY THINNES, as the only man on earth who knows of plans for invasion by an extraterrestrial power, stars in "The Invaders," new show with a midseason start over ABC 8:30-9:30 Eastern Time. Tuesdays.

Last of the Movie Tycoons, Gambler, Showman, Success

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Six months after taking over as president of 20th Century-Fox and closing its Hollywood studio, Darryl F. Zanuck was ready to swing the film company back into action.

He had reorganized personnel

Zanuck Fired Many Friends in Regaining Power

Fourth of five articles on the revival of 20th Century-Fox

NEW YORK (AP) —When Darryl F. Zanuck became president of 20th Century-Fox he found the film company "hopelessly in the red, with bank credit extended to its limit."

He decided he had no choice but to stem the outflow by closing the studio and reorganizing from top to bottom.

Zanuck queried department heads for suggestions on how to streamline their operations and the entire company. He found no new ideas. The organization was riddled with cliques more intent on fighting each other than selling movies.

"I was faced with the unpleasant task of changing all key personnel," Zanuck recalls. "When a crew has run the ship aground, you get rid of the crew."

His chore was odious for two reasons: many top men were his long-time friends; most had contracts that had to be settled, some as high as a half-million dollars. But all except the financial executives were swept away.

Next he turned his attention to the studio.

Zanuck wanted his son Richard to assume charge. At first Richard, then 28, was reluctant because of the expected cry of nepotism.

"Don't worry about me D.Z.," Richard said. "I've produced 'The Chapman Report' at Warners, and I know I can get a job there, or some other studio."

But the senior Zanuck was insistent. He named his son "president's production representative." Richard and assistant Stanley Hough performed the dismal task of firing most of the personnel, including scores of people Richard had known all his life. The payroll shrank from 2,000 to 200, mostly police and janitors required for insurance purposes. Even lawns and shrubs went untended, and the commissary was closed for the first time.

Zanuck turned his attention to the project that helped bring Fox to its low state: "Cleopatra." He screened the finished film in Paris, where he was completing his own film, "The Longest Day."

"I never had such a shock in my life," he recalls. "I saw many story links missing, a sea battle one-third finished, and a desert battle so fragmentary as to be incomprehensible."

Zanuck consulted director Joseph L. Mankiewicz, who admitted the gaps but said the previous administration ordered him to finish shooting on a certain date or his cameras would be taken from him. Zanuck let Mankiewicz supply the missing scenes, which added another million to the cost.

All future films were canceled except "The Visit." The company had an inescapable contract with Ingrid Bergman. Zanuck now views that as "a terrible decision," since "The Visit" lost more money than the half-million required to pay off Bergman.

With Fox at a virtual standstill, Darryl Zanuck retired to a villa in the south of France to study all the studio's literary properties. Among them was the Rodgers-Hammerstein musical, "The Sound of Music." He had seen the Broadway version a year and a half before and found it "pretty hokey." But he saw possibilities in it as a film.

Next, The hills are alive with the sound of money.

and slashed expenses. Now he was reaching the bottom of the barrel of unreleased movies and needed to resume production. He started making deals.

'Kind of Poison'

"It wasn't easy at first," admits Richard Zanuck, his father's production chief. "Nobody wanted to talk to us; with the studio shut down, we were kind of poison in the industry."

Young Zanuck began staffing the studio again, rehiring 75 per cent of the workers previously released. Production resumed with such films as "Move Over, Darling," "What a Way to Go," "Rio Conchos" and "Goodbye Charlie." The television division was sold, including "Peyton Place."

Money began pumping through the corporate veins, thanks in large part to the release of Darryl's own "The Longest Day," which brought $17 million in its first year. Million-dollar advances from theaters for expected rentals of "Cleopatra" helped the financial picture. The epic opened to dismal reviews, but business was good, especially after 30 minutes was cut from the running time.

The big change came with "The Sound of Music."

Rights to that musical had been bought for $1,250,000 but Fox couldn't make the film until the Broadway run was concluded. That time was approaching, and the Zanucks assigned Ernest Lehman to write a script. William Wyler was hired as producer-director, but he dropped out, declaring, "It's not my cup of tea." Darryl Zanuck estimates Wyler thus did himself out of $6½ million.

Robert Wise replaced him, and the movie was filmed for $8.2 million with Julie Andrews as the joyful Maria.

It was at the New York premiere of "The Sound of Music" that Darryl Zanuck realized he had succeeded in restoring 20th Century-Fox to prosperity.

Success Beyond Belief

After 91 weeks in U.S. release, the film had played 290 theaters and was still in 281 of them. The latest world gross is $69 million, by far the highest for any movie, and the film can still play at least 5,000 more important theaters in this country alone. It has sold more tickets than the populations of 20 American cities where it has played.

Other films, notably "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," "Our Man Flint" and "Fantastic Voyage," have helped bring the sound of money to 20th Century-Fox. The television division is so successful — 10 full network hours this season — that the entire Desilu Culver studio had to be rented for the production overflow.

Employment is at an all-time high: 4,000. So is the company's gross income: $211,854,000 — $15

Problems of Manless Nurse

NEW YORK—A funny thing happened to The Doctors and The Nurses on the way to daytime television.

Somewhere along the trail to soapuds drama, the once-popular nighttime series lost its men. In the new, daily ABC-TV version the series reverted back to its original title, The Nurses.

Not only are the males missing, but ladies like Mrs. Liz Thorp are no longer "Mrs."

Liz, as played by Mary Fickett, who replaced Shirl Conway for the daytime grind, is a single girl. And the actress playfully laments the fact.

"The character is now 'Miss Good,'" said Miss Fickett. "It's quite a challenge not to bore myself out of existence. Sure, Liz meets men. But in the new version she can never find one to have a meaningful relationship. Most of the time she just provides a crusty shoulder for the other nurses to cry on."

This doesn't mean the actress is crying sour penicillin.

She is quite content with Liz Thorp and the series.

"It all looks terribly easy, this daytime soap opera stuff. But it's demanding for an actress. You constantly because there is such limited rehearsal time, draw on yourself and expend your own emotions. Most of our viewers have suffered and they know when you are faking," said Miss Fickett whose career has included Broadway and a stint as a television reporter.

million higher than any other film company. Profits for the last fiscal year: $12,199,000.

The secret of the Zanuck operation? It appears to be the happiness of an old-time showman in guessing what the public wants to see, plus the readiness to gamble high stakes on top-notch attractions.

"People want fun when they go to the theater," says Richard Zanuck, interpreting his father's philosophy. "We intend to give them fun."

She was the original Eleanor Roosevelt in "Sunrise at Campobello," and for two years she shared interviewing honors with Harry Reasoner on CBS-TV's morning show, Calendar.

Although she is hopeful for another big Broadway part (her last was in the flop, "Love and Kisses") she is not overly anxious and i content to wait for the right vehicle.

Just before she signed her Nurses contract a year ago, she became a mother and has a daughter, Bronwyn, 18 months old. Married to actor James Congdon, currently on Broadway in "Wait Until Dark," the couple recently bought an old brownstone in lower Manhattan which they are refurbishing.

"The problems on The Nurses are nothing compared to that house," says the actress.

TV Shorts

All Clear

Hugh O'Brian is busy in London filming Dial M For Murder, which will eventually show up on TV. Production was delayed when a starling got in the studio. O'Brian, in true Wyatt Earp fashion, rushed to the rescue. The stage was cleared while he coped with the problem. A half hour later, he announced "All Clear." The secret: a handful of crumbled cake, an open door and lots of patient silence.

Personality Face

A little boy of TV SCOUTS acquaintance is a Lost in Space fan. He got an autographed picture of Jonathan Harris, who plays Dr. Smith on the show, and said, "Dr. Smith's face has a wonderful personality."

Cosby a Nun

A script for a forthcoming segment of I Spy calls for Bill Cosby to be disguised as a nun.

Conway Set For Movie Film

HOLLYWOOD — Tim Conway pondered our thought that he is the "Wrong Way" Corrigan of Hollywood.

His hilarious clowning in McHale's Navy won him a lush Universal movie contract, the goal of all TV series' stars, at the end of the long-running series.

But now, packing a pair of six shooters and wearing the badge of a Texas Ranger, Tim was waiting to play a scene as the star of Rango, a new TV series due in January for ABC-TV's "Second Season."

Spurning movies for a TV series was a wrong way move to most of the industry's thinking.

With his usual funny look at things, Tim said:

"You know, I hadn't thought about that but I guess you're right. Maybe my next step should be out of television and into radio. Then out of radio into an advertising agency and then back home to mother's arms."

But he had not walked out on that lush movie contract. He and his agent had just put the contract on ice for two years to give him a chance to blossom out as the star of his own show.

"The idea of the show is so funny—so solid," Tim explained, "that I just couldn't resist it. The idea of the show is so funny, in fact, that I'm really playing second banana to the show."

The idea of the show, in which Tim plays an inept Texas Ranger, was explained by Aaron Spelling, partner with Danny Thomas in a new TV film producing company.

"We're having the show written completely straight, just like a straight Zane Gray western. Then we weave Tim in as the foul up. Our reason for this is that Tim really isn't a comedian—he's a clown. He's Laurel and he's Hardy. His ad libs are better than Milton Berle's and his falls are better than Red Skelton's."

Hearing the words, Tim blushed, made a comical attempt at a fast gun draw and said,

"I'll give a guy a parking ticket just like that."

The plots may be straight, but the titles indicate Conway will be his usual cutup. Some of the titles include "Gunfight at The KO Saloon," "You Can't Scalp a Bald Indian," "The Not So Great Train Robbery" and "The Spy Who Came In From the Heat."

No one is worried about the bumbling Texas Ranger upsetting Texas pride. "We have," Tim deadpanned, "a Texas Ranger technical advisor. Unfortunately he's dead. He died in 1870."

But they are worried about the show as a mid-season starter opposite the last half of The Man From U.N.C.L.E. and the first half hour of the CBS Friday night movie.

As Tim is quick to tell you: "We should be on at least a week. But if the show goes off we're going to do it from house

Closeup of Mars Ch. 17 Feature

The mysteries of Mars are examined in the film "Closeup of Mars" when Channel 17 presents "Experiment" Tuesday, Jan. 17 at 10:30.

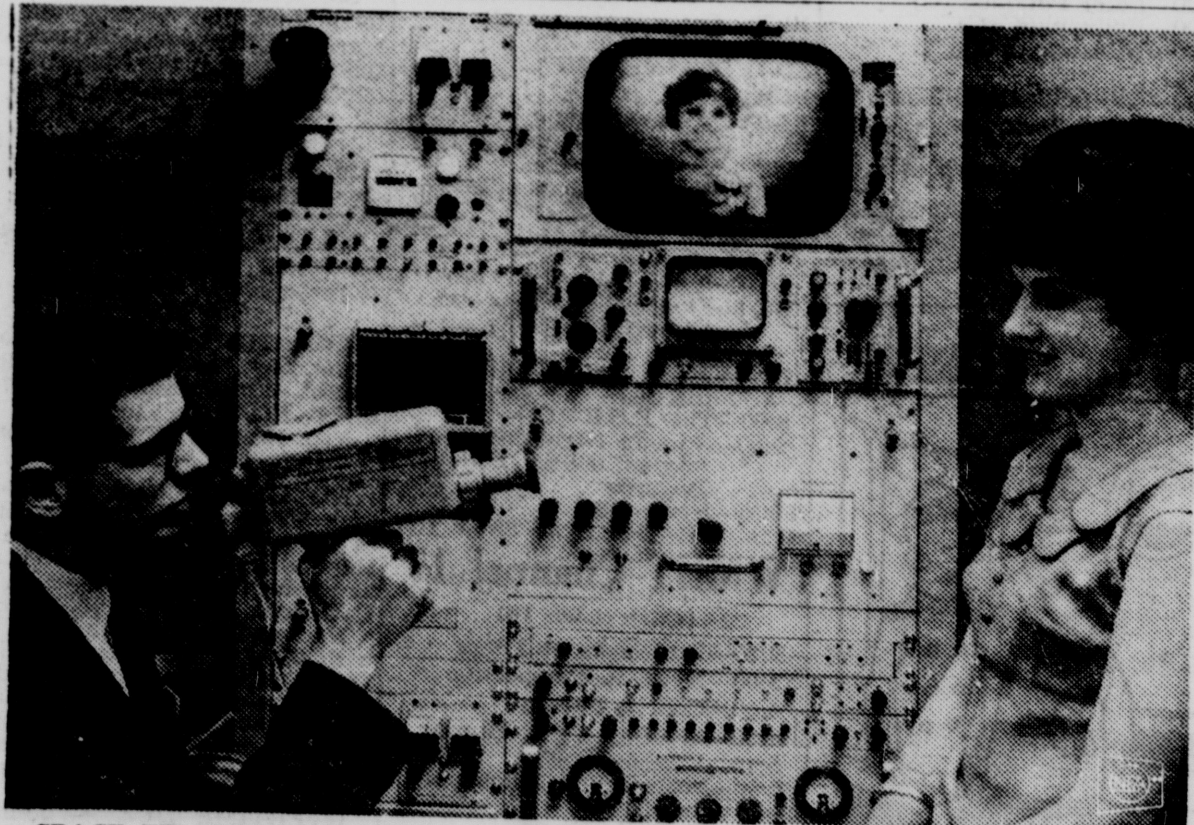

A team of scientists at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, Calif., led by Dr. Robert Leighton, and engineers of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena led by Denton Allen work together to solve the mysteries of Mars.

Denton Allen and his team are shown developing the highly complex television camera system for the Mariner IV which will record the images of Mars' surface, encode and store them, then transmit them to earth.

The results are then turned over to Dr. Leighton and his group who will interpret and explain the scientific significance of these first martian photographs.

Host, Don Herbert narrates and illustrates the contents using specially built models and demonstrations during studio sequences.

"Closeup of Mars" is a presentation of National Educational Television, produced by Prism Productions under grants from the National Science Foundation and the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. Don Herbert is producer and David Prowitt is executive producer.

Moment With Momentous End

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — "It was a momentous decision for me," Bill Daniels said, "because I'm acutely aware of how difficult it is to do something good on television."

It was not only momentous, but eyebrow lifting, this decision of Bill's to leave New York after two brilliant stage hits, "A Thousand and Clowns" and "Zoo Story." He had come to Hollywood for the title role of Captain Nice in a new satiric NBC-TV series and it was eyebrow lifting because of his stature as an actor.

From his role of the social worker in "A Thousand and Clowns" (he also created the role for the movie) to a fellow named Captain Nice appears, on the surface, to be the year's most improbable casting.

Captain Nice, debuting on Jan. 9, as replacement for the Roger Miller Show, is a combination of Batman, Superman and other TV crime fighters and is from the far-out mind of writer Buck (Get Smart) Henry.

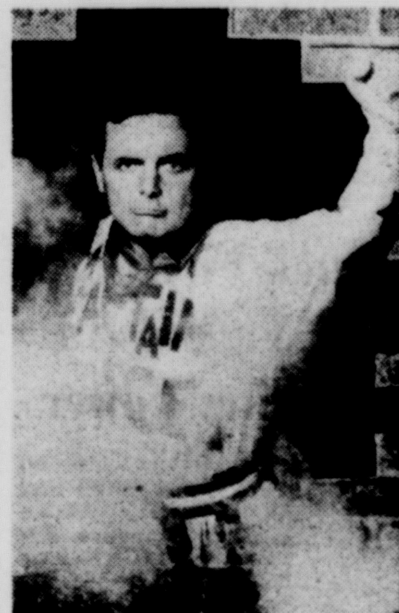

As Carter Nash in the series, Daniels is a mild, meek mother-dominated young man who works as a police department chemist. In his work he discovers a secret liquid drink which transforms him into Captain Nice, a mild, meek and mother-dominated superhuman protector of Big Town, U. S. A.

As Captain Nice, Bill will be wearing a baggy leotard and a moth-eaten cape as he flies over Big Town in pursuit of criminals. As he flies he will also be suffering from acrophobia.

And you know why black-haired, 38-year-old Bill Daniels calls his decision momentous.

Now hear his reasons for becoming Captain Nice. It isn't just money, he assures you.

"I know Buck Henry's work and we see eye to eye on everything. Everyone associated with the show is bright and hip. It's like pop art and wonderful anti-hero. I'll be playing the part quite straight and realistically."

BILL DANIELS

"Yes, I thought about being stuck with a Captain Nice image. I had great doubts. But Henry convinced me with the argument that I've been acting or 20 years, that I've been in six Broadway plays and that only people in the business know my work."

Brooklyn-born Daniels was a song and dance man at the age of four in a family act; spent two teen-age years in Broadway's "Life With Father," and then resumed his stage career after two post World War II years with the U. S. occupation army in Italy.

He and his wife Bonnie Bartlett (feminine lead for three years in the TV soap opera Love of Life) and two infant children are living in a home leased from Joel McCrea. The switch from New York apartment living, he laughs, is a momentous change, too.

"My wife is learning to drive an automobile and I'm learning what all the push-buttons in McCrea's home mean. In a New York apartment an engineer takes care of room temperature. Out here the push buttons make YOU the engineer."

TV Questions &amp; Answers

RIDE 'EM STUNT MEN—In the Roy Rogers films we see on TV do one or two men play his part?—O.K., Savannah, Ga.

Rogers, a proficient horseman, did his own riding except for scenes which were too dangerous. Most movie and TV westerns employ stuntmen because of insurance reasons. Even the late Trigger had a stand-in.

HOMEY GREETINGS—Please give the home address of Stephen Brooks of The FBI. We don't want the studio one!—Gloria Bartlett, Cairo, W. Va.

Sorry, we can't. It's our policy to protect the privacy of the stars. But Steve will get your letter if you mail it to him at Warner Brothers, Burbank, Calif.

CALL HER MOM—Who is the father of Peyton Place star Dorothy Malone's children?—Mrs. I. Boggs Sr., St. Paul, Minn.

Mimi, 6, and Diane, 4, call Dorothy's ex-husband Jacques Bergerac, the French actor, pere.

BRITISH RAT—Is Gary Raymond, Sgt. Jack Moffit of Rat Patrol, really from England?—M. N., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Yep. He was born in London.

NO HELP FROM HOME—I understand Marlo Thomas, star of That Girl, wouldn't have a show if her father Danny Thomas wasn't the producer.—Mrs. T. C., Miami, Fla.

Her dad has nothing to do with the ABC-TV comedy series. Marlo, after starring in London on stage in "Barefoot in the Park," got the show on her own acting merits. Bill Persky and Sam Denoff are the producers.

OVERTIME DUE—Johnny Carson seems to talk so much on The Tonight Show I wonder if he gets paid for each word he says?—J. Knight, Miami, Fla.

Johnny could be silent and his salary would be the same: plenty.

Como a Stand-in

Perry Como doesn't know it, but he served as a stand-in for Hal Holbrook. Make-up man Dick Smith was setting up lights and positions for Holbrook to test his make-up for his upcoming CBS-TV special, Mark Twain Tonight, prior to Holbrook's arrival. As a focal point, Dick used a rubber mask of Como which he had made while at NBC.

Whose Job?

A fire broke out in a waste basket on the set of the Today show recently. While the fire spread, there was a union jurisdictional dispute over who should put it out.

Cinnamon and Everything Nice

HOLLYWOOD—It's the sugar, not the spice in Cinnamon.

Not, Barbara Bain said, that her role of Cinnamon Carter on Mission: Impossible isn't spicy enough. It is. The sultry Miss Bain, with the huge luminous eyes, proves it every week on the CBS-TV show.

What she means is that she thinks Cinnamon of the feminine wiles and derring-do is the sweetest feminine role around on television this season. Sweet because of Cinnamon's many facets.

"Really, I think it's a smashing role. One week I can turn on the sex and the next week I can impersonate Steve's (undercover agent Steven Hill) plain, undorned, hapless daughter. The scripts are so good, too. Ingenious rather than full of gimmicks. Every week I read a new one. get excited and say, 'Oh, goodie, what's the next script about?'"

It is no secret that Barbara Bain is the wife of Martin Landau, another cast member of the Mission: Impossible staff, but for the sake of audience image they have insisted on no Mr. and Mrs. publicity.

They have two children, 3½-year-old Susan and 1½-year-old Juliet and Barbara feel that dual careers in one family are ideal for a nappy, long-lasting marriage.

"I think," she says, "it would be difficult for me to be married to anyone except an actor. When your husband is an actor he can understand what your day at the studio can be like. Our acting careers are a great bond between us."

The appeal Cinnamon Carter has for pre-teenage and teen-age boys is a constant source of wonderment and amusement for Barbara.

Sometimes I worry about my appeal to 8 year olds—the 8-year-old son of actress Carroll Baker, for instance. Martin and I went to a party one night and Miss Baker rushed up to me and said, 'Oh, Barbara, I'm sorry my son isn't here. You are his favorite actress.'"

A fan letter from a 17-year-old boy also amused her. He wrote: "My parents and I don't agree on anything except one thing—we both like Mission: Impossible."

Before the current series, Barbara played a variety of roles on almost all of the filmed TV shows. "Everything," she tells you, "from sexy heavies to nice wives dying of cancer."

One of her best previous roles was on an episode of Wagon Train.

"But frankly," she says, "I never would have made it across country on a wagon train. I couldn't even stand our four-day location."

While husband Martin worked on the movie "Cleopatra" he and Barbara lived for a year in Rome, where she learned Italian so well that she co-starred in two Italian language movies.

But in Hollywood, she laments, she never has been offered a movie in the seven years she and Martin have lived here.

Beatles in ABC Feature

BY BILL BYERS

NEW YORK — It's not true.
Cool it. The rumors are false.
The Beatles aren't busting up.

Now doesn't that already make 1967 seem a little brighter?

Brian Epstein, the Beatles' baby-faced but authoritative manager, telephoned from London to assure the worried world the boys have no plans to hock their guitars or drums and go their lonely, single ways, except maybe for a leave of absence now and then.

"They will always be together," said a firm Epstein.

At the moment, he said, the quartet is planning a new movie.
English writer Owen Holder is hard at work putting together a script, but so far hasn't got around to giving it a title.

Object is to make it completely different from "A Hard Day's Night" and "Help!" A director hasn't been chosen, but Epstein said it wouldn't be Richard Lester, responsible for the earlier successes. He has another picture commitment.

The boys are also planning their first television spectacular (to be made in England) which will be aired about the time of their next record album release in March. That, too, hasn't a title so far.

The only title the manager is positive about is "The Beatles at Shea Stadium," a special over ABC-TV Tuesday, January 10. It is composed of film highlights of the group's visit to New York 18 months ago when 60,000 frantic fans jammed the ball park.

Their most recent visit, last summer, was less successful, although two teen-age girls did try to commit suicide by leaping from atop a New York hotel.

Although Epstein is convinced the boys will be chums and partners for life he isn't as convinced about whether they will make many future world tours.

"It just doesn't seem feasible at the present," he said. "But who knows? Perhaps in the future they might."

"Smashing" is Epstein's description of Beatle John Lennon's solo debut in the film,
"How I Won the War."

Lennon, who cropped his shaggy hair for the part of a wacky soldier, is letting his locks grow so he won't look like an odd ball with fellow Beatles when they do their TV spectacular.

Epstein has also encouraged
Ringo Starr, the Beatles drummer, to solo in a film.

As you might expect, a title hasn't yet been selected for Ringo's first starring effort.

Really Homesick

George Maharis, who recently made a TV appearance on Bob Hope Presents the Chrysler
Theater, has three New York apartments: one on the West Side, one on the East Side and one in Greenwich Village. He says this has its drawbacks (besides a large rent bill). "Whenever I'm out of town for a while, I get three times as homesick as anyone else."

TV Questions & Answers

POOR SWINGER — Why did Swinging Country leave the air? —M.D., Portland, Ore.

The NBC-TV daytime country-western music series failed to get enough viewers. Reach for the Stars, a new quiz show, replaced it.

MONKEE SUBS — Is it true that the Monkees don't play their own instruments? —Sueann Clemons, St. Paul, Minn.

Yes. But that doesn't mean they can't. All have musical talent but Screen Gems thinks they sound better with other musicians providing the music. The boys, however, do their own singing.

CAT'S MEOW — Will there ever be a series about a cat like the one about Lassie, the dog? —Timmy K., Miami, Fla.

Perhaps. But so far none of the networks has indicated such.

FIRST AID — Where may I secure the names and addresses of TV producers? I have several stories which I would like to introduce to television. —Dr. Victor L. Pizzuplo, Miami, Fla.

Producers' names are listed on the credits of shows. Either write them in care of the network or the studios where their shows are staged. If you send them scripts be sure you have them copyrighted.

COLLECTING ADDRESS — I understand Mary Martin collects hands clasped in a handshake. Where may I send her a set? —H. F. Gregory, Old Trap, N. C.

At the moment, the actress' handiest address is the Forty-Sixth Street Theatre, 226 W. 46th, New York. She and Robert Preston are the sole players in the new Broadway hit musical comedy, "I Do, I Do."

MISSING SAMMY — What has happened to Sammy Davis Jr.? Why don't we see him on television any more? —B. Ritter, Norfolk, Va.

The entertainer is currently preparing to star in London in "Golden Boy," which he played for more than a year on Broadway. NBC-TV dropped Sammy's series last season because of low ratings.

DRIPPY PRESENT — What's the real name of Josephine, the plumber in those soap commercials? Is she an actress? —Mrs. I. G., Great Falls, Mont.

Jane Withers is the actress in the overalls. In the 1930's she was popular in films as a child star, usually playing a sassy but misunderstood moppet. Some years ago she played a talkative Texan in "Giant." But so far,

Josephine has been her most popular role.

PLUG YOUR EARS — Why is the theme music on Iron Horse, Bewitched and Combat so loud? —Paul, Minn.

This has been a constant complaint from viewers about most programs. There is no apparent reason why the musical scores should be booming unless the producers want to drown out the dull dialogue.

LONG TREK — Where has Leonard Nimoy, the most interesting star of the season, been all these years? —Barbara H., Syracuse, N. Y.

Nimoy, who plays Mr. Spock on Star Trek, has been an actor for some time. You probably didn't notice him without the make-believe long ears he wears on the NBC-TV series. He has feature billing on such shows as Dr. Kildare, The Virginian and Outer Limits. The actor lives in Los Angeles with his wife Sandra and their children Juile, 11, and Adam, 9.

DANNY'S START — How did comedian Danny Kaye get into show business? Is it true that he is retiring? —Mrs. K. Katz, Miami, Fla.

A native of Brooklyn, the 55-year-old entertainer started early working at summer resorts in New York's Catskill Mountains. His first major break came when he was featured on Broadway in "Lady in the Dark," starring the late Gertrude Lawrence. Danny told CBS-TV he wouldn't do his show next season about the same time the network decided to cancel the expensive program. His exit will be next Spring. In the future, he plans to concentrate on guest appearances and films.

YOUTHFUL GRIN — Bob Crane looks so young on Hogan's Heroes but I understand he has a grown son. —Patty C., Norfolk, Va.

The actor is mum about telling his age. But he and wife, Anne (a childhood sweetheart) live in Tarzana, Calif. with their children Bobby, 15, Debby, 7, and

COLORFUL CHAP — Since we don't have a color TV set we've been wondering if Bill Mumy, who plays Will Robinson on Lost in Space, has red hair? —K. C. and T. M., Portland, Ore.

You've guessed correctly. And by the way, his eyes are blue.

G.I.R.L. THEME — How may I get an album of the theme music of NBC-TV's The Girl From U.N.C.L.E. —Nicky Danielle, St. Paul, Minn.

Look in your local record shop.

ONE OF THE 10 competitors for 1967 Hollywood Stars of Tomorrow Awards on Jan. 28 will be the beautiful and talented Celeste Yarnall. She is a former Miss Rheingold and has been coming along nicely in television and movie roles.

MGM Records recently recorded tunes from the spy thriller, arranged and conducted by Teddy Randazzo.

BIT PAY OFF — Tell us about Bess Myerson's personal life. I think she is charming. —E. H., Clear Lake, Wisc.

The former 1945 Miss America, panelist of I've Got a Secret and co-host of Candid Camera, is a native of Manhattan where she still lives. She is married to attorney Arnold M. Grant (her second husband) and the mother of Barbara, 18, a college student.

WELK REPLACEMENT — You said The Lawrence Welk Show will go off the air once its host dies. But Welk says Myron Floren will replace him when he goes. Who is telling the truth? —K. D., Portland, Ore.

Welk may have said accordionist Floren will take over his band once he retires. But that doesn't mean ABC-TV will continue televising the show. Don't worry. Welk is still going strong at 63 and hasn't indicated he will quit show business.

SLIPPERY FEAT — Did Andy Williams do his own ice skating on his Christmas show? —Jim Scheuneman, St. Paul, Minn.

Yep, to an extent. A double did one fancy bit. The singer is an avid skier. Perhaps next year he will sing carols on a mountain slope.

Has Clear Field

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Romanian Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu is reported to have received assurances he will not be opposed in his bid to become the first president of the U.N. General Assembly from a Communist country.

Informed sources said the only other known candidates, Emilio Arenales Catalan of Guatemala and German Zea of Colombia, have yielded to Manescu even though this would have been Latin America's year under the traditional system of regional rotation.

News in Color Set for ABC

When ABC's "Peter Jennings With The News" telecast expands to its new 30-minute, in-color format on Monday, January 9, the step will represent one more giant stride in the growth of the ABC News Department during the past five years.

In 1961, the entire ABC News Division was housed in one large room in the basement of the seven-story ABC Production Center at 7 West 66th Street in New York City.

Today, ABC News occupies all seven floors of this same building and more than half-a-dozen other buildings in the same area. In addition, ABC News mans domestic bureaus in Atlanta, Washington, Chicago and Los Angeles and, on the international scene, maintains news bureaus in London, Paris, Rome, Moscow, Berlin, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Vietnam.

Five years ago, the entire ABC News staff—radio and television departments include—totaled less than 50 in number. Today, there are more than 800 full-time employees on the news staff, most of whom have been added within the past three years.

Budgetwise, the amount of money allocated for ABC News has increased almost seven-fold during the past five years. In 1967, a total of 33 million dollars will be spent by ABC on its new coverage; in 1961, the entire news budget was less than five million dollars.

Not only has the ABC News Department grown in quantity, but it has also increased quality-wise. For example, the number of special television documentaries scheduled for showing during the 1966-67 season is more than double the total televised last year.

"This great growth is an indication not only of ABC's commitment to broader, more in-depth news coverage but a distinct reaction to a public desire for more and better news reporting," ABC News President Elmer W. Lower said recently.

"As the public desire for more and better news coverage increases," he continued, "so must we look ahead for more and better methods. What was good films coverage yesterday should be live coverage tomorrow."

The new format for the expanded "Peter Jennings With The News" program will place greater emphasis on airing reports from ABC News' worldwide network of news correspondents.

In addition, the new Jennings show will present frequent live reports from both the European and Asian continents using the Early Bird and Lani Bird communications satellites.

ABC News plans for the 1967 season also include a three-and-a-half hour study of the African continent, a color special being produced by James Fleming for showing during one entire evening in prime time in the spring.

Ask TV Scout

The final Bell Telephone Hour of the season is quite a coup for the show, which has been scoring coups more often than Sitting Bull's Indians did at the Battle of Little Big Horn. The show, which will be telecast on April 23, will be filmed in Madrid's famous museum, the Prado. It's the first time a camera crew has been permitted in the hallowed halls. Andres Segovia will be host and performer. Victoria de los Angeles and Alicia de Larrocha will also perform. The Prado has been reluctant to allow a camera crew in because the hot lights can easily damage the priceless art. However the Bell Telephone crew uses handheld cameras and fewer lights, which helped their cause.

Last Free Soul

Tarzan producer Steve Shagan has a funny explanation about the absence of Jane from the TV series. He says, "We didn't have Jane in our series because we didn't want Tarzan to have to report to his wife on the 5:30 vine. He's the last free soul in the world. He is not Superman. He bleeds, he gets hurt, he experiences anguish and sadness. He is not indestructible."

The Large World Of Albert Eisten On Channel 17

Nuclear physicist Edward Teller displays his remarkable skill in interpreting science to the layman in "The Large World of Albert Eisten," which will be presented by Channel 17 Friday, January 20 at 10:00.

Compelling stage presence, a sense of humor and devotion to his subject mark Teller's style of interpreting Einstein's work for the layman. He begins with well-known geometric theories and gradually leads his audience into the geometry of space and time. "I am not going to prove that Einstein was right," he states early in his talk, adding "That would take more time than an hour." Using similes ranging from the operation of an automobile cigarette lighter to a space flight by an astronaut moving at one-half the speed of light, Teller shows how velocity and acceleration seem to influence the passage of time. As far as practical applications of Einstein's theories are concerned, he says "They are essential in studying the question of how this world got started."

The program was produced by The State University of New York during Dr. Teller's residence as Distinguished Visiting Professor in Nuclear Science for the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Vietnam Story

The first show in the CBS Playhouse series, set for Jan. 29, is called "The Final War of Olly Winter." Fred Coe, who is producing, is filming it in Hollywood because he says there wasn't enough studio space in New York. Story concerns Vietnam, but they couldn't find any Vietnamese actors. So they hired Chinese, Japanese and Filipinos. They are being coached in Vietnamese by a UCLA professor. Coe says this is probably an unnecessary bit of authenticity since he learned there are only about 700 people in the U.S. who speak Vietnamese and would know the difference.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED WANT AD . . .

1. IT'S always best to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location and/or town or city in which it is located.
2. BE clear. Readers respond more quickly and favorably.
3. MAKE it easy for the reader-prospect to reach you, when given complete or definite information. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.
4. THE greatest reader attention can be secured by your advertisement by using consecutive insertions. Play safe—a six-day order is best and the rate is lower! You can stop your ad when you get results and the charge will be adjusted to the appropriate rate.
5. PLACE yourself in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Want Ad.
6. WANT ads that fail to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

Yes, it's simple to place your classified ad in the —

Thinnes Gets Letters Galore

HOLLYWOOD — Roy Thinnes is grateful—again—to people who write fan letters.

The tall, blue-eyed and blond Roy, who reminds you of Paul Newman ("I don't mind if Newman doesn't"), leaned back in the leather chair of his dressing room and talked about his third time, thanks to fans, as the star of a television series.

The fan letter writing started a few years back when he starred for two seasons as Dr. Brewer on the daytime soap General Hospital. The mail count was so impressive that it won him the lead in last year's widely heard-ied The Long Hot Summer.

The Long Hot Summer, however, was of short (26 weeks) duration because of low ratings. But the fan mail count addressed to Roy was higher than ever and word got around to Quinn Martin, producer of The Fugitive who was casting a new series.

"I've been told," Roy said, "that fan mail gave me this third chance and I'm grateful, believe me."

The new series, coming to ABC-TV Jan. 10 as part of the network's "Second Season," is The Invaders, science-fiction themed suspense drama about an invasion of earth by unidentified flying objects. The space craft bring a horde of invaders who assume the look of earthlings in a plot to take over the world.

Only Thinnes, playing an architect, discovers the plot and becomes a death target for the invaders. The show, in a way, is a reverse of The Fugitive, with Thinnes playing a man running away from public scorn because of his belief in UFOs while knowing he's marked for death.

About playing a study in frustration, he grins: "It's challenging to say the least. There will be no time for comedy."

ROY THINNES

About the short Long Hot Summer he says: "I really don't know exactly what happened to the show but I have my opinions. I think they fell down in the story department. We had a brilliant cast but we were turned into a front for another anthology show. They moved in guest stars and we stood around with egg on our faces."

Chicago-born Roy, who learned his acting ABCs on stage and radio there, once included New York as part of his five-year plan to win stardom.

"But," he laughs, "it was strictly famine for me in New York. I was even turned down by the Actors Studio. I played off-Broadway bits for $42 a week, paid $25 a week rent and went on a diet of spaghetti because it was cheap."

With his return to Hollywood, more TV bits led to General Hospital, which led to all that fan mail.

Gitlin to Tackle Another Knotty, Delicate Subject

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If Irving Gitlin operated in another field, he would probably be called an experimenter. As it is, he is an independent producer of television documentaries who recently has been trying out other forms, notably drama.

Gitlin, in his four years as an NBC news documentary producer, turned out some exciting and unusual programs — a report on activities in a hospital emergency ward, a controversial public relief situation and a reprise on the war-time decision to drop the atom bomb among them.

Moved Out of Town

Two years ago, he moved out on his own, and his first network effort was not a documentary, but a hard-hitting, brutal police story on ABC's "Stage 67" called "The Confession." It drew mixed reviews, but Gitlin says that he was experimenting purposefully with the form — "using other techniques to get at reality," he calls it.

Gitlin says that when he first tackled the subject of police authority versus a suspect, he intended to make a documentary film about harsh techniques of interrogation.

"But we found we couldn't really get to the essence of the central theme in the documentary mode," he said, "so we chose the dramatic approach instead."

Next Thursday night, again on "Stage 67," Gitlin will tackle another knotty, delicate subject, "Sex in the Sixties." But this time he will fall back on familiar documentary techniques — interviewing assorted young people and the experts.

Presumably, the subject would lend itself to dramatic treatment, but Gitlin tried that before in a series of daytime specials for women and although they dealt with some serious, important subjects, they all ended up looking and sounding like soap operas.

"It would have been no trouble at all to get explicit sexual material on camera," Gitlin said. "There is profound change in attitudes of permissiveness and in behavior. The problem of the television documentarian is to pick the right tools and I believe that factual documentation is right in this case."

Gleason Signs Again

Jackie Gleason and his "Honeymooners" troupe — Art Carney, Shirla MacRae and Jane Kean, have signed for another season with CBS.

NBC's "Today Show" will mark its 15th anniversary on Friday, Jan. 13, with Dave Garroway and John Chancellor, the program's first two hosts, and two "Today" girls, Lee Meriwether and Louise King, as guests.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Saturday—"The Newlywed Game," ABC, 8-8:30 p.m., premiere of a daytime game show as a midseason evening replacement; "How I Spent My Summer Vacation," NBC, 9-11, two hour movie made for television broadcast with Peter Lawford and Lola Albright.

Sunday—"Today" in Britain," NBC, 6:30-7:30 p.m., taped excerpts from the recent visit of the "Today Show" to London.

STATION BREAK

"You bet he's tough! His parents named him after their favorite TV performer. So stay clear of Donna Reed!"

"What's for dessert—TV pie or TV cake?"

Take One, Take Two, Etc.

HOLLYWOOD—It was Frank Aletter's day for creating double takes.

It started when he decided to ride a bicycle from the sound stage where CBS-TV's "It's About Time" is filmed to a restaurant two blocks away. He was wearing his costume of a U.S. Astronaut and . . .

"Well," he laughed, "I forgot all about the heavy traffic on Ventura Boulevard."

The sight of an astronaut riding a bicycle brought several motorists to brake.

Frank's gorgeous, black-haired wife, former Miss America Lee Meriwether, joined him for lunch and Frank kissed her as she sat down beside him.

This brought a large double take from a girl sitting in an adjoining booth but with Lee's back to her. She was a script girl on "It's About Time" and as she left she stopped at the table to laughingly tell Frank and Lee: "I was a little surprised seeing Frank kissing a girl because I said to myself, 'I know his wife.'"

It isn't often that a husband and wife working in separate TV shows enjoy the luxury of lunching together. Lee has a continuing role in ABC-TV's "Time Tunnel" series but a change in schedule had left her time off for lunch—and time to laugh about a double take of her own.

It happened when Frank came home from the studio after having his hair dyed blond for his astronaut role. "He walked into the house," Lee said, "and I said, 'Hello, honey' on my way from the living room through the dining room to the kitchen."

It was, she said, a three-room double take.

"I didn't scream until I reached the kitchen, where the blond hair change suddenly hit me," Lee explained.

Sudden change has hit the format of "It's About Time," too. The series about a pair of U.S. astronauts breaking the time barrier started with their landing in a Stone Age community. Now the show will have a modern day background, with the Stone Age people (Imogene Coca and Joe E. Ross) being transported into the 20th Century.

The first months of the show were rapped by critics and Frank wonders:

"Where are we wrong? I'm curious about why the critics say the show is so bad because Jack Mullaney and I are playing Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. We're doing the same things. I suppose the whole show is pretty far out but so was the movie 'Fantastic Voyage.' I feel like saying to the critics, 'Suspend your initial disbelief and believe it the way you believed 'Fantastic Voyage.'"
